THEA RASCHE READY FOR BERLIN SOLO FLIGHT

German Aviatix Expects To Take Off For Old Orchard, Me.; Wants To Start Ocean Flight Wednesday.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Her newly acquired Bellanca monoplane poised on the runway at Curtiss Field, L. I., Thea Rasche, intrepid German aviatix, was expected to take off today for Old Orchard, Maine, on the first leg of her proposed solo trans-Atlantic flight to Berlin, Germany.

Providing weather conditions over the expansive turbulent waters of the Atlantic are favorable, Thea will take off from Old Orchard tomorrow. The plane was put through its final test yesterday and met with the satisfaction of the fair pilot.

Thea's announcement of her intention to hop off for Old Orchard today came as suddenly and unexpectedly as did the announcement of the abandonment of her plans for the ocean flight last week when it was announced she was having difficulty in financing the flight.

Mrs. James Stillman, wife of the banker, sympathetic with Thea's ambition, has been helping her. Mrs. Stillman, who has long been interested in aviation has undertaken to finance the venture. Out of deference of the banker's wife's interest in astrology and astronomy the name "The North Star" has been emblazoned on the fuselage.

SMITH MACHINERY AT HOUSTON PREPARED FOR SPEEDY CHOICE

Franklin Roosevelt To Place Governor In Nomination

HOUSTON, June 19.—Although seven long, hot days stretch out ahead before the Democratic national convention formally gets under way, machinery was to be set in motion today which friends of Governor Al Smith are confident will bring him the presidential nomination on an early ballot.

Much water will go over the dam between now and the day when the balloting begins, but at present Governor Smith seems to be the sole topic of discussion in this flourishing Texas city.

GOVERNOR RITCHIE WITHDRAWS NAME

BALTIMORE, June 19.—The nomination of Governor Al Smith, of New York, is assured, according to his friends here, following the announcement of Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, that he has withdrawn from the fight.

HOOVER PREPARING FARM PROGRAM THAT WILL SATISFY FOES

Long-View National Policy Needed Is Candidate's Theory

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Eight years study of the currents of production and distribution convince Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, that the first thing needed to aid the American farmer is a "positive, long-view national policy for the better setting of agriculture" in the economic picture.

Hoover, it was learned today, is giving much consideration to his agricultural program and hopes to offer a concrete plan that will be acceptable to both the McNary-Haugenites of the Mid-West and those who oppose the equalization fee principle. He already has convinced Senator McNary, (R) of Oregon, and today is expected to confer with Senator Curtis, of Kansas, vice-presidential candidate.

Four essentials in a "long-view" policy, according to Hoover's ideas, are:

1. Better organization in farm marketing.
2. An agriculture better balanced to the demand.
3. Stability of business as a whole.
4. Elimination of waste in production and distribution, not only of what the farmer sells but what he buys, thereby increasing the benefits both ways.

A compilation of Hoover's views, obtained at the commerce department, showed that among the factors which would aid the farmer through increase in national efficiency, include consolidation of railroads, development of electric power supply, waterways and synthetic nitrates at Muscle Shoals.

The rail consolidation plan, he feels, would allow a sure readjustment of rates in favor of the farmer, through wide diversification of traffic, greater economy in operation, financial stability and better handling of terminal problems.

The compilation of Hoover's views contains this statement: "There is no scheme of price fixing by the government, whether direct or indirect, or by government buying and selling of farm products, which will not in the end, bring complete disaster to the farmer."

SENATOR CURTIS TO URGE NEW HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Senator Curtis, of Kansas, Republican nominee for vice-president, is expected to make his first public appearance here today by representing Kansas as a witness before the federal board of hospitalization at the Veterans Bureau.

Senator Curtis was requested by officials of the state and patriotic societies to appear before the board to advocate the location of a mid-western veterans bureau hospital in Kansas.

OHIO TORNADO WREAKS HEAVY TOLL

ONE KILLED DURING STORM; MANY HURT; DAMAGE IS SERIOUS

Buckeye Lake Hard Hit; Vicinity Of Marietta Struck

NEWARK, O., June 19.—One dead, a score injured and over a hundred cottages and other buildings heavily damaged by high wind and rain was the estimated toll today caused by the tornado and rain storm which late yesterday swept with devastating velocity across Buckeye Lake and vicinity. Property damage is estimated at $150,000.

Phillip Parrett, 21, was struck and killed by lightning, near Thornville, Perry County, five miles down the lake.

Telephone and telegraph lines are severed and all communication with the resort is virtually cut off. Roads leading to the lake are inundated and the only means of travel to the lake is by interurban car.

Many were slightly injured, the most serious of these being Elsie Huber, 3, daughter of Orville Huber, living on a farm near the lake, who suffered two broken ribs.

Miss Ruth Cull, Columbus, received a cut on her head. She was taken to a Columbus hospital where she was treated and then taken to her home. Seven girls vacationing with Miss Cull escaped injury.

The baby of Mrs. Harold Johnson, Columbus, was snatched from her arms by the wind and deposited on a pile of debris.

Cottages were lifted from their foundations and carried into the lake. Others were overturned, and many had windows blown out, and porches wrecked.

The storm swept across the lake from the south to the north sweeping a path several hundred feet wide. Roads were blocked by fallen trees, telegraph and telephone poles. Communication was cut off when wires were blown down.

MARIETTA, O., June 19.—Washington County prepared today to repair damages caused late yesterday by a series of heavy wind storms which swept across southeastern Ohio bringing heavy damage to property and serious injury to at least three persons.

The injured are Mabel, five-months old daughter of Cornelius Schwendeman, west of Lowell; Henry Erb, 50, merchant and Postmaster Whipple, and Mrs. Hannah Eddy, 84, of Bells Run. All are in a hospital here and have a chance to recover, physicians say.

The Schwendeman home, on Rainbow Creek, marked the west-

BURST WATER MAINS RESULT IN FLOODS

CLEVELAND, June 19.—Two huge water mains in the Cleveland downtown district burst today, tying up traffic, washing away a portion of Superior Avenue and partly flooding the Cuyahoga valley, causing a loss estimated between $50,000 and $100,000.

Erie and Baltimore and Ohio trains were derailed by way of Berea over the New York Central Railroad because of thousands of gallons of water flooding their respective tracks.

HAIL KILLS MANY

BUCHAREST, Roumania, June 19.—Many persons were killed and wounded today in the districts of Sinaita, Braila, Jalomiza, Prahova and Covurlui by a violent hail storm during which hail stones weighing nearly half a pound fell. Crops were destroyed. A train was wrecked on the Bucharest-Constantina line and many persons were hurt.

REED CONFIDENT OF HOUSTON VICTORY; EXPECTS DEADLOCK

Missouri Will Have To Be Shown By Democrats.

KANSAS CITY, June 19.—When and if the Democratic national convention gets into a deadlock at Houston next week, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri confidently expects he will win the fight for the presidential nomination. The senator's political backers said as much here today in announcing Reed's plans before the Missouri delegation leaves for the Texas city Thursday night.

"Senator Reed is not going to Houston just for the ride," said Charles M. Howell, Kansas City attorney and intimate friend of Reed. "The salient fact is this: Jim Reed is going to Houston to get the Democratic presidential nomination for Jim Reed."

Howell recalled that Senator Reed was reared in and around Cedar Rapids, Ia., and Herbert Hoover was born at West Branch, twenty-eight miles from Cedar Rapids.

"Reed and Hoover," he said, "did not swim in the same swimming hole; they were neighbors but not aware of it. Any opinions each may have formed of the other was in later public life. Nothing is in the way to prevent a battle that would make a new record in presidential campaigning."

The Reed leaders are counting on the solid south to stop Governor Smith, according to the senator's backers, and around Senator Furnifold Simmons of North Carolina and Governor Dan Moody of Texas are built high hopes that the latter two will work to break the Smith early lead in the balloting.

Irish Author Crushed To Death Under New Auto; Rose Rapidly To Fame After "Messer Marco Polo" Printed In 1921.

CORK, Ireland, June 19.—Donn Byrne, widely known in America and Europe as the author of Messer Marco Polo and other novels, and short stories, was killed here today in an automobile accident. He was 39 years old.

Byrne had only recently purchased an automobile and last night he went motoring alone from Colmain Castle near Bandon. The motorcar was discovered later overturned by the seashore, the author's body beside it.

Born in New York City, Byrne was educated in Ireland, later studying English literature in Paris and Leipzig. His name was Brian Oswald Donn Byrne, but his nom-de-plume of "Donn Byrne" was the only name he had used for a number of years.

Married in 1911 to Miss Dorothy Cadogan of Dublin, Byrne returned to the United States the same year and engaged in newspaper work. His first book, "Stories Without Women," was published in 1915. A number of other books followed, but it was not until 1921, that he won his greatest success with "Messer Marco Polo," when he was hailed as one of the world's finest literary craftsmen. Other novels followed, including "The Wind Blows," "Blind Raftery" and "O'Malley of Shanaghagh." Byrne's background and upbringing were entirely Irish, and all of his writing was colored by his wide knowledge of Irish history and ancient culture.

MOSQUITOS BITE LIKE DOGS AT SUMMER WHITE HOUSE, IS SAID

SUPERIOR, Wis., June 19.—This is the annual mosquito story that emanates from the summer White House.

They must "sit down and push." Unbelievers can apply to the secret service and the Third Infantry, guardians of President Coolidge's Brule River camp for complete confirmation.

Says the army sergeant who drives the car of Col. James A. Coughlin, the White House physician: "Boy they bite like bulldogs."

At night, the troopers patrolling the estate wear mosquito masks of netting roughly resembling parrot cages and gloves.

All along the thirty-three mile road from Superior to Cedar Island Lodge are intermittent signs extolling the virtues of various mosquito salves and lotions.

While talking to the president seated inside the porch, one of the first visitors started counting the mosquitoes perching on the outside of the screen. He got into the hundreds and got dizzy.

Only one dissenting voice is raised from the camp. Dick Jervis, the handsome chief of the White House secret service detail, insists they are "very nice mosquitoes."

A photographer swears he saw two men on the streets of Superior wearing earmuffs, and stocking caps are common among the kids despite the advanced date.

The president may come into Superior today and pay his initial visit to the temporary executive offices. He has threatened to do this for the past several days, but rain or a desire to fish each time has deferred the trip.

Everett Sanders, the president's secretary is insisting that Mr. Coolidge come into the office only three days a week—Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. He says a

METHODISTS GAIN BUT CHURCHES LOSE

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The Methodist Protestant Church had 2,236 churches in the United States in 1924 and 191,495 members, the census bureau announced today.

The membership is considerably heavier than in 1916, but the number of churches is smaller, indicating the national tendency in all phases of activity toward consolidation.

Total expenditures by the churches amounted to $3,119,000, of which $2,565,000 was for current expenses and $554,887 for benevolences and missions.

The membership was chiefly rural, 136,519 having lived in the country and the remainder in cities and towns. It was largest in North Carolina with 26,992, followed by 23,326 in Ohio, 22,174 in Maryland and 18,702 in West Virginia.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING
COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—Having been struck by lightning while playing in a playground near his home yesterday, Donald Thomas, 10, negro, is dead today, according to a police report.

INCREASE IN PRICE OF FOOD REPORTED; POTATOES DECLINE

May Costs Higher Than April And Than May, 1927.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The detail cost of food increased more than 1 per cent in May over April prices, and about 1 per cent over May, last year, the department of labor announced today. The increase amounted to over 59 per cent since May, 1913.

The principal increase in food prices during May were: cabbage, 21 per cent; pork chops, 13 per cent; oranges, 12 per cent; lamb and fresh eggs, 5 per cent; flour and navy beans, 4 per cent; onions, 3 per cent, while skirion and round steak, chuck roast, plate beef and lard jumped 2 per cent.

The largest price decline was in potatoes, amounting to 6 per cent. Butter, canned tomatoes, corn flakes and bananas declined 1 per cent.

During the month there was an increase in the average cost of food in the following cities: Louisville, 4 per cent; Baltimore, Birmingham and Cincinnati, 3 per cent; Chicago, Cleveland, Columbus, Indianapolis, Omaha, Philadelphia, Richmond, St. Paul, Scranton, Springfield, Ill., Washington, D. C., 2 per cent; Atlanta, Boston, Bridgeport, Dallas, Denver, Detroit, Kansas City, Little Rock, Manchester, N. H., Memphis, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Newark, New Haven, New Orleans, New York, Norfolk, Peoria, Pittsburgh, Portland, Me., St. Louis, Salt Lake City, 1 per cent.

Although it rained here last night, weather reports indicated flying conditions over the Atlantic would be good today.

Yesterday morning, an announcement was made by the fliers in which they stated they would abandon their plans to fly across the ocean and ship the plane to England for a westward attempt instead.

Later, however, they decided that since everything was in readiness for the flight, they would adhere to their original plans.

TOLEDO, O., June 19.—Released under personal bond of $5,000, Charles V. Mack, Norwalk, former officer in the Ohio National Guard, is at liberty today following a plea of not guilty to an indictment charging padding of government payrolls when arraigned before Federal Judge John M. Killits here yesterday.

According to the indictment, Mack is charged with presenting false reports to superior officers for payment of members of his organization. The fraudulent claims were made, the indictment charges, while Mack was captain of Company G, 145th Infantry, O. N. G.

Mack was one of fourteen officers arrested about a year ago in connection with alleged pay roll padding.

YOUNG COUPLE WILL TRY HAWAII FLIGHT

FLINT, Mich., June 19.—Undaunted by the fate of Mildred Doran and Auggie Pedlar, of Flint who died in a brave effort to wing the Pacific to the Hawaiian Islands, Miss Verna Redpath, 22, and Clarence B. "Whitey" White, 22-year-old flier, today are planning to try to hop to Hawaii.

"I followed the preparations and start of the Miss Doran (Pedlar's plane) with keen interest," Miss Redpath said, "and I thought at the time how wonderful it would be if I could do something like that. When 'Whitey' asked me if I would fly across the Pacific with him, I jumped at the chance."

Miss Redpath and White have not decided definitely when they will start for the coast to prepare for the flight.

FIND BODY IN LAKE
CLEVELAND, June 19.—The body of a 35-year-old man recovered from Lake Erie was lying in the morgue here today awaiting identification. No clue to the man's identity was found on his person, it was said.

WOMAN AVIATOR AND COMPANIONS REACH OCEAN FLIGHT GOAL

Rousing Welcome Is Given Flyers By Townspeople

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., June 19.—Miss Amelia Earhart, of Boston, the first woman to span the Atlantic by airplane, and her two companions—Pilot Wilmer Stultz and Mechanic Louis Gordon—reached the goal of their daring trans-ocean flight here this afternoon in the monoplane Friendship. The plane dropped upon the surface of the harbor shortly before 1:30 p. m. English summer time.

Stultz expressed the sentiments of the other fliers when he exclaimed: "I certainly am glad it is over. Now for a good rest."

The Friendship had hopped off at Burry Inlet, on the South Wales coast at 11:07, conveyed by an Imperial Airways plane carrying Capt. H. H. Bailey, European representative of the Friendship's overseas flight.

The Friendship arrived here at 1:17 p. m., but did not descend immediately. It began circling over the harbor while Pilot Stultz picked out a suitable spot to come down.

The Friendship alighted upon the water at 1:23 o'clock and was immediately moored.

As soon as the Friendship was sighted through the channel haze the ships in the harbor set up a din with whistles and sirens. The tumult grew as the plane circled inward and prepared to alight. Bells upon shipboard and in the city were rung in welcome. Crowds along the water front cheered continuously.

The flight from Burry Inlet was made doubly difficult by the fact that the weather was rainy and foggy and Pilot Stultz was navigating over strange country with

ROME FLIGHT IS BOLL PLAN

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 19.—After changing their plans several times following Miss Amelia Earhart's successful flight to Europe Miss Mabel Boll and her two companions, Captains Oliver La Grange and Arthur Argles, have decided to take off on a flight to Rome at noon today, weather permitting.

Although it rained here last night, weather reports indicated flying conditions over the Atlantic would be good today.

Yesterday morning, an announcement was made by the fliers in which they stated they would abandon their plans to fly across the ocean and ship the plane to England for a westward attempt instead.

Later, however, they decided that since everything was in readiness for the flight, they would adhere to their original plans.

The Friendship alighted upon the water at 1:23 o'clock and was immediately moored.

As soon as the Friendship was sighted through the channel haze the ships in the harbor set up a din with whistles and sirens. The tumult grew as the plane circled inward and prepared to descend. Bells upon ships rang in welcome. Crowds along the water front cheered continuously.

The flight from Burry inlet was made doubly difficult by the fact that the weather was rainy and foggy and Pilot Stultz was navigating over strange country with

ROME FLIGHT IS BOLL PLAN

HARBOR GRACE, N. F., June 19.—After changing their plans several times following Miss Amelia Earhart's successful flight to Europe Miss Mabel Boll and her two companions, Captain Oliver Le Bouillier and Arthur Argles, have decided to take off on a flight to Rome at noon today, weather permitting.

Although it rained here last night, weather reports indicated flying conditions over the Atlantic would be good today.

Yesterday morning, an announcement was made by the fliers in which they stated they would abandon their plans to fly across the ocean and ship the plane to England for a westward attempt instead.

Later, however, they decided that since everything was in readiness for the flight, they would adhere to their original plans.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO FRAUD CHARGES

TOLEDO, O., June 19.—Released under personal bond of $5,000, Charles V. Mack, Norwalk, former officer in the Ohio National Guard, is at liberty today following a plea of not guilty to an indictment charging padding of government payrolls when arraigned before Federal Judge John M. Killits here yesterday.

According to the indictment, Mack is charged with presenting false reports to superior officers for payment of members of his organization. The fraudulent claims were made, the indictment charges, while Mack was captain of Company G, 145th Infantry, O. N. G.

Mack was one of fourteen officers arrested about a year ago in connection with alleged pay roll padding.

VETERAN IS DEAD

CLEVELAND, June 19.—Funeral services were to be held here today for Abraham Goldsmith, 88, Civil War veteran, one of the last survivors of Sherman's march to the sea. Goldsmith, a cigarmaker, died yesterday following a short illness.

AWARDED CUSTODY; ATTORNEY SUE FOR DIVORCE IN COURT

Following a hearing in Common Pleas Court Saturday on a habeas corpus action, Joseph Cundert was awarded custody of his two children, Regina, 12, and Paul, 11, whom he claimed were being detained unlawfully by Andree Zeller and Beatrice Ford.

The father sought a writ of habeas corpus in an effort to obtain possession of the children. The court ruled he is entitled to their custody.

ATTORNEY SUE

Attorney Forest Dunkle is named defendant in a suit for divorce filed by Lillian Dunkle in Common Pleas Court.

The plaintiff charges gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. She asks to be restored to her former name of Lillian Clemmens and seeks to have the defendant barred of power of interest in her real estate.

Attorney Dunkle brought suit for divorce several weeks ago but the case was later withdrawn.

THREE CAUSES OF ACTION

N. N. Hunter, doing business as "Wickscham Hardware Co." of Jamestown, has brought suit against R. W. Moore in Common Pleas Court, setting up three causes of action.

The plaintiff alleges $450 is due on a promissory note and that a balance of $426.35 is also due on an account running from February 10, 1921 to January 30, 1926.

Mrs. R. W. Moore died February 6, 1924, leaving the defendant her sole heir and also administrator of the estate, the petition declares. It is claimed in the petition that the plaintiff held a note for $1,320 signed by Mrs. Moore and that after a deduction of two credits amounting to $818, the balance is still due.

The plaintiff asserts Moore allowed the note and promised to pay the balance if the plaintiff would promise not to push the claim against the estate.

Moore, it is charged, failed to pay this balance although he has received all the assets of the estate. The plaintiff asks for judgment on all three causes of action. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

APPEAL TAKEN

Appeal from judgment by default in the court of M. M. Ferguson, Beaver Creek Twp., Justice of the Peace, has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Ralph R. Routhahn against George Greer, a minor by his father and next friend, C. F. Greer.

Greer sued and obtained a judgment for $140.33, alleged balance due on a written contract with Routhahn. He charged the defendant discontinued business, sold his flowers and plants for $700 and only paid the plaintiff $70.

TWO GIVEN DIVORCE

John Shoemaker has been granted a divorce from Anna Shoemaker in Common Pleas Court on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty.

Bessie Cline has been awarded a divorce from Walter Cline on grounds of extreme cruelty. Juvenile Court which already has taken jurisdiction, was given custody of the two children, Margaret and Mabel. The court enjoined the defendant from interfering with their custody.

AUTHORITY GIVEN

Application of the Regular Baptist Church of Xenia for authority to mortgage real estate for the purpose of borrowing $15,000 from the Peoples Building and Savings Co., has been granted in Common Pleas Court.

WEEK-END VISITS

In the case of Nellie Riley against Sheridan Riley in Common Pleas Court, on application of the plaintiff, the court has fixed the time and place where she may see and visit her son, Rhine. The parties to the action could not reach an agreement over this question.

The court ruled that the defendant must allow the plaintiff to have the child from Saturday morning until Sunday evening every other week and that he must bring or send the child to the mother on these occasions. The first visiting date was fixed for June 16.

MADE PARTY DEFENDANT

On motion of the defendant, Raymond Bull, J. A. Finney, as administrator of the estate of Carrie S. Bull, deceased, has been made a party defendant to the case of Charles Bozarth against Raymond Bull and others in Common Pleas Court and has been directed to plead within fifteen days.

EXTEND ANSWER DAY

In the case of John Benson against The Pennsylvania Railroad Co., on motion of the defendant, answer day has been extended by the court to July 7.

DISMISS SUIT

By joint agreement, the suit of The Dayton Power and Light Co., against H. H. Ary and others, has been ordered dismissed without record in Common Pleas Court.

EXECUTORS NAMED

Aletha L. Harshman and John B. Harshman have been named joint executors of the estate of John F. Harshman, late of the city of Xenia, without bond in Probate Court.

Elizabeth Robbins has been appointed executrix of the estate of Daniel Calhoun, late of the city of Xenia, bond being dispensed with.

VALUE ESTATES

Gross value of the estate of M. Elizabeth Ferguson, deceased, is estimated at $9,000 in Probate Court. Debts and the cost of administration total $1,424.10, leaving a net value of $7,575.90.

Estate of J. H. Hamilton, deceased, has an estimated gross value of $2,000. The net value is also $2,000 since there are no debts or cost of administration.

ORDER SALE MADE

Sale of real estate has been authorized in the case of Ella Gerhardt, as administratrix, against Floyd Gerhardt and others in Probate Court. P. M. Stewart, Howard Applegate and Charles H. Hackett, were named appraisers of the estate.

AWARDED CUSTODY; ATTORNEY SUE FOR DIVORCE IN COURT

Following a hearing in Common Pleas Court Saturday on a habeas corpus action, Joseph Cundert was awarded custody of his two children, Regena, 12, and Paul, 11, whom he claimed were being detained unlawfully by Audrey Zeller and Beatrice Ford.

The father sought a writ of habeas corpus in an effort to obtain possession of the children. The court ruled he is entitled to their custody.

ATTORNEY SUE

Attorney Forest Dunkle is named defendant in a suit for divorce filed by Lillian Dunkle in Common Pleas Court.

The plaintiff charges gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty. She asks to be restored to her former name of Lillian Clemmings and seeks to have the defendant awarded of lower interest in her real estate.

Attorney Dunkle brought suit for divorce several weeks ago but the case was later withdrawn.

THREE CAUSES OF ACTION

N. N. Hunter, doing business as "Wickensham Hardware Co." of Jamestown, has brought suit against R. W. Moore in Common Pleas Court, setting up three causes of action.

The plaintiff alleges $450 is due on a promissory note and that a balance of $426.35 is also due on an account running from February 10, 1921 to January 30, 1926.

Mrs. R. W. Moore died February 6, 1924, leaving the defendant her sole heir and also administrator of the estate. The plaintiff declares it is claimed in the petition that the plaintiff held a note for $1,320 signed by Mrs. Moore and that after a deduction of two credits amounting to $815, the balance is still due.

The plaintiff asserts Moore allowed the note and promised to pay the balance if the plaintiff would promise not to push the claim against the estate.

Moore, it is charged, failed to pay this balance although he has received all the assets of the estate. The plaintiff asks for judgment on all three causes of action. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

APPEAL TAKEN

Appeal from a judgment by default in the court of M. M. Ferguson, Beavercreek Twp., justice of the peace has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Ralph R. Routzahn against George Greer, a minor by his father and next friend, C. F. Greer.

Greer sued and obtained a judgment for $149.33, alleged balance due on a written contract with Routzahn. He charged the defendant discontinued business, sold his flowers and plants for $700 and only paid the plaintiff $70.

TWO GIVEN DIVORCE

John Shoemaker has been granted a divorce from Anna Shoemaker in Common Pleas Court on grounds of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty.

Bessie Cline has been awarded a divorce from Walter Cline on grounds of extreme cruelty. Juvenile Court which already has taken jurisdiction, was given custody of the two children, Margaret and Mabel. The court enjoined the defendant from interfering with their custody.

AUTHORITY GIVEN

Application of the Regular Baptist Church of Xenia for authority to mortgage real estate for the purpose of borrowing $1,500 from the Peoples Building and Savings Co. has been granted in Common Pleas Court.

WEEK-END VISITS

In the case of Nellie Riley against Sheridan Riley in Common Pleas Court, on application of the plaintiff, the court has fixed the time and place where she may see and visit her son, Rube. The parties to the action could not reach an agreement over this question.

The court ruled that the defendant must allow the plaintiff to have the child from Saturday morning until Sunday evening every other week and that he must bring or send the child to the mother on these occasions. The first visiting date was fixed for June 16.

MADE PARTY DEFENDANT

On motion of the defendant, Raymond Bull, J. A. Finney, as administrator of the estate of Carrie S. Bull, deceased, has been made a party defendant to the case of Charles Bozarth against Raymond Bull and others in Common Pleas Court and has been directed to plead within fifteen days.

EXTEND ANSWER DAY

In the case of John Benson against The Pennsylvania Railroad Co., on motion of the defendant, answer day has been extended by the court to July 7.

DISMISS SUIT

By joint agreement, the suit of The Dayton Power and Light Co. against H. H. Ary and others has been ordered dismissed without record in Common Pleas Court.

EXECUTORS NAMED

Aletha L. Harshman and John B. Harshman have been named joint executors of the estate of John T. Harshman, late of the city of Xenia, without bond in Probate Court.

Elizabeth Robbins has been appointed executrix of the estate of Daniel Calhoun, late of the city of Xenia, bond being dispensed with.

VALUE ESTATES

Gross value of the estate of M. Elizabeth Ferguson, deceased, is estimated at $5,000 in Probate Court. Debts and the cost of administration total $1,424.10, leaving a net value of $7,575.90.

Estate of J. H. Hamilton, deceased, has an estimated gross value of $2,000. The net value is also $2,000 since there are no debts or cost of administration.

ORDER SALE MADE

Sale of real estate has been authorized in the case of Ella Gerhardt, as administratrix, against Floyd Gerhardt and others in Probate Court. P. M. Stewart, Howard Applegate and Charles H. Hackett were named appraisers of the estate.

FAMED TUBERCULAR DOCTOR, NATIVE OF COUNTY, SUCCUMBS

Dr. William LeRoy Dunn, 57, Asheville, N. C., former Greene County and one of the world's foremost authorities on tuberculosis, died May 24 at the Mt. Alto Veterans' Bureau Hospital, Washington, D. C., according to word received by Xenia relatives.

Dr. Dunn was a cousin of Mrs. Reed Madden and other Xenians. He was born on a farm between Fairfield and Yellow Springs, but when he was eight years old his parents moved to Decatur, Ill.

Dr. Dunn's discovery of the illness that proved fatal was a dramatic one. Realizing his condition, he took X-ray photographs of his chest and presented the pictures to other physicians who did not realize they were his, for diagnosis.

He had a record of distinguished service in the World War, serving in Italy for eight months as chief of the medical service base hospital No. 102 at Vicenza.

Over 60,000 Claims Paid

Prompt Service on Claims

If there is one thing in which The Central takes special pride, it is our prompt service on claims. When fire or accident comes, the thing that means most to you is prompt settlement for your loss. The Central agent is on the job immediately to tell you just what to do. Then, within twenty-four hours, our adjuster is there also to expedite the settlement. From both, you receive the most sympathetic co-operation. They, and we, appreciate the importance to you of a prompt and satisfactory settlement of a loss, and in the Mutual spirit of friendly service, they bend their efforts to that end. Our check in full settlement is issued immediately upon receipt of proof of loss.

Over $17,000,000.00 to Policy-Holders

The Central has paid over 60,000 claims with entire satisfaction to policy-holders. From the beginning, the Company has devoted its energies to providing sound insurance protection and lowering the cost of insurance. Up to January 1, 1928, it had returned to policy-holders in dividends a total of $5,294,004.00. The present dividend rate is 30%—representing a very tangible saving in insurance cost. With assets of $3,509,238.51 and a net surplus of $1,704,513.42, The Central is staunchly sound and dependable, measured by any test of solvency. Its policies are absolutely safe. It offers reliable and low cost insurance, with the guarantee of prompt claim service, to any individual or corporation whose business or property can qualify as a first class moral or physical risk.

Further information about the Company, its record, its methods, and the quality of the protection it offers you, will be gladly given you on request to our local representatives or to us. Our policies can be secured only through the accredited representatives of the Company.

JUDGMENT IS SEVEN TIMES LARGER THAN SUM FIRST SOUGHT

An illustration of how rapidly interest mounts over a period of years was given in the jury trial of the suit of John Cyphers, as administrator of the estate of C. E. Cyphers, deceased, against John P. Krise, which resulted in an instructed verdict for the plaintiff for $652.73 in Common Pleas Court Tuesday morning.

The administrator originally brought suit for $200, alleged due on a promissory note, with 8 per cent interest from March 19, 1914.

The note, made out to Cyphers before his death, had credits amounting to $109, leaving a balance of $91 due.

With the case coming to a trial fourteen years later, the interest had raised the total amount due on the note to more than seven times its original value.

Attorney C. L. Darlington represented the plaintiff.

Personnel of the jury: W. H. Kepler, E. J. Ferguson, R. K. Haines, Fred Barth, Sherwin Spahr, Jordan Robb, I. M. Coy, Lillian Baker, John Zimmerman, Mary Hawkins, Florence Thompson and George C. Smith.

Swine Sanitation Train Here Monday

The tour of the train is sponsored by the B. and O. Railroad, co-operating with the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging.

Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty-cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of Dr. Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

AUTHORITIES SEEK BAD CHECK WORKER

Authorities of eight counties are searching for a man who victimized F. E. Wilson, Hussey Pike, a week ago by passing a bogus check for $54.62 in payment for eighty chickens and two cases of eggs which he had purchased.

The check was on the West Liberty Bank and was signed with the name "J. L. Longcorey." The stranger declared he lived near West Liberty and was in the market for poultry and eggs.

Wilson became suspicious the following morning. He communicated with the West Liberty Bank and was told nobody by that name had an account there.

The stranger was driving a Ford roadster, which later developed had been stolen from Marion, O.

Wilson gave a description of the man to authorities of Greene and seven other counties.

ART EXHIBITION IS FEATURE OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Annual Meeting Opened Tuesday At Van Wert

VAN WERT, O., June 19.—Exhibition of 1,000 reproductions of the masterpieces of Christian art, many done in oil, today featured the opening of the 62th Ohio Sunday Schools Convention which will continue until Friday.

This convention marks the close of the most constructive year in the history of the Ohio Council of Religious Education, A. T. Arnold, general secretary of the society, said.

Ohio has passed New York in total enrollment in week-day schools of religion, Arnold pointed out.

"It is also conceded that in quality of work we have passed all other states," he added. He stated that Ohio leads in vacation schools and in leadership training programs.

In connection with the exhibition the reproductions, Prof. H. Augustine Smith of the Boston University was to conduct a grade conference in "The Fine Arts of Religion."

Miss Blanche Carrier, of Dayton, is to lead the conferences in week-day religious education. Miss May K. Cowles, of Van Wert, is to have charge of an exhibit of handwork from weekday schools. Miss Adella Starnett, of Cleveland, is to take the lead in the special meetings for vacation school teachers.

Daily conferences for children's, young people's and adult workers and for the administration group will take place. On the last day of the convention a leadership training conference will be held.

ARREST YOUTH FOR DESTROYING HOSE

Richard Ferris, 19, N. Detroit St., was under arrest Tuesday, charged with malicious destruction of property at the home of C. E. Arbogast, 445 N. King St.

Police say that the youth cut up a length of hose into small pieces at the Arbogast residence and after it had been repaired by the owner, proceeded to cut it up once more, this time stealing the nozzle.

Ferris had the nozzle in his possession and is said to have admitted the theft when Patrolman Fred Jones arrested him Tuesday.

Police also believe the boy is responsible for cutting flowers on property in the northern part of the city, which resulted in many complaints being received.

ART EXHIBITION IS FEATURE OF SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Annual Meeting Opened Tuesday At Van Wert

VAN WERT, O., June 19.—Exhibition of 1,000 reproductions of the masterpieces of Christian art, many done in oil, today featured the opening of the 69th Ohio Sunday Schools Convention which will continue until Friday.

This convention marks the close of the most constructive year in the history of the Ohio Council of Religious Education, A. T. Arnold, general secretary of the society, said.

Ohio has passed New York in total enrollment in week-day schools of religion, Arnold pointed out.

"It is also conceded that in quality of work we have passed all other states," he added. He stated that Ohio leads in vacation schools and in leadership training programs.

In connection with the exhibition of the reproductions, Prof. H. Augustine Smith of the Boston University was to conduct a grade conference in "The Fine Arts of Religion."

Miss Blanche Carrier, of Dayton, is to lead the conferences in week-day religious education. Miss May K. Cowles, of Van Wert, is to have charge of an exhibit of handwork from week-day schools. Miss Adella Sterrett, of Cleveland, is to take the lead in the special meetings for vacation school teachers.

Daily conferences for children's, young people's and adult workers and for the administration group will take place. On the last day of the convention a leadership training conference will be held.

Speedy Relief From Bunions—Soft Corns

No sensible person will continue to suffer from those intense, agonizing, throbbing bunion pains when the new powerful penetrating yet harmless antiseptic Emerald Oil can readily be obtained at any well stocked drug store. Apply a few drops over the inflamed part and see how speedily the pain disappears and the inflammation is reduced.

So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that soft corns seem to shrivel right up and drop off. Savin's Drug Store guarantees one bottle to give results and is dispensing it to many foot sufferers.

AUTHORITIES SEEK BAD CHECK WORKER

Authorities of eight counties are searching for a man who victimized E. E. Wilson, Hussey Elder, a week ago by passing a bogus check for $54.62 in payment for eggs which he had purchased.

The check was on the West Liberty Bank and was signed with the name "J. L. Longenecker." The signer declared he lived near West Liberty and was in the market for poultry and eggs.

Wilson became suspicious the following morning. He communicated with the West Liberty Bank and was told nobody by that name had an account there.

The stranger was driving a Ford roadster, which later developed had been stolen from Marion, O.

Wilson gave a description of the man to authorities of Greene and seven other counties.

MINISTER IS HEARD AT ROTARY MEETING

The high ideals and principles of Rotary were taken as the subject of a talk to Xenia Rotary Club, by the Rev. James McMichael, Conserville, Ind., formerly of Cedarville, at the Elks Club, Tuesday noon.

The talk was well received as were the vocal solos of Miss Eleanor McDonnell. The singer was accompanied on the piano by her sister, Miss Mary McDonnell.

Women, Weak, Tired, Run down and Nervous or who suffer ovarian pains, pains in the lower part of the stomach, bearing down pains, female weakness, headaches, backache, melancholia, despondency, nervous derangements, flashes of heat, fleeting and indefinite pains, whites, painful or irregular periods, should write to Mrs. E. L. Lovell, 7626 Mass., Kansas City, Mo.

She will entirely FREE and without charge to the inquirer advise a convenient home method whereby she and other women say they have successfully relieved similar troubles.

These thankful women say "I feel like a new woman." And others, "I don't have any pains whatever anymore." "I can hardly believe myself that your Wonderful Method has done so much good for me in such a short time." Write today. This advice is entirely free to you. She has nothing to sell.

Dr. E. M. Nighbert, U. S. Department of Agriculture, lectured on swine sanitation and talks were given also by Joel Coffey, of the animal husbandry department, Ohio State University, on the control of parasites in pigs and H. L. Andrew on cement feeders for hogs.

The tour of the train is sponsored by the P. and O. Railroad, co-operating with the Ohio Experiment Station at Wooster.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

ARREST YOUTH FOR DESTROYING HOSE

Richard Ferris, 19, N. Detroit St., was under arrest Tuesday, charged with malicious destruction of property at the home of C. E. Arbogast, 445 N. King St.

Police say that the youth cut up a length of hose into small pieces at the Arbogast residence and after it had been repaired by the owner, proceeded to cut it up once more, this time stealing the nozzle.

Ferris had the nozzle in his possession and is said to have admitted the theft when Patrolman Fred Jones arrested him Tuesday. Police also believe the boy is responsible for cutting it up on property in the northern part of the city, which resulted in many complaints being received.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD'S DELIGHT—The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord; but the prayer of the upright is his delight. —Prov. 15:8.

BILLIONS FOR AMUSEMENT

Out of the figures of the internal revenue bureau on federal returns from amusement taxes the statistically minded will derive pleasant speculations as to the probable outlay of the American people every year for amusements. If admittance taxes for ten years from 1918 to 1927, inclusive, totalled $537,830,804, then the taxable amusements must have taken in somewhere close to $6,000,000,000. But the taxable amusements are only a fraction of the whole. Nobody can even guess at the total of money paid for admission to entertainments for purposes that put them outside the scope of the federal tax collector.

In three straight years 1924-5-6, the federal rake-off on world's series games exceeded $100,000 a year, and bulked to beyond $347,000 total. In 1927 they well off to $78,659. In view of the fact that the 1927 series only ran four straight games, while the others all went seven, iconoclastic critics will naturally discover an excellent reason why a world series does so much alternating.

Whatever anybody may say about prize fighting, it has figured large in the federal accounts. The five heavyweight bouts in which the scowling Dempsey engaged from 1921 to 1927 contributed precisely $782,202.20 to the treasury. It is true that Professor Tunney participated on two occasions that netted Uncle Sam $417,257, but the Manassa Mauler had a hand, or, to be precise, a pair of hands, in the whole $782,202.20.

Big figures are characteristic of big business. Big business is the pride and glory of this big nation. And certainly the diamond and the squared ring classify as big business—from the box office standpoint.

WHY SHOULD HOMES BE DULL

"The fine art of living" was called the keynote of the recent convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, held at San Antonio, Texas. The federation has been working for four years for the improvement of American homes.

Millions of people look at home as a dull kind of place. For such ones it is a center of boredom, mitigated by the fact that it is the place where they sleep.

If the home life can be made a more ideal one, people will love their homes so they will hate to leave them, they will be rooted in the good towns where they live, and be willing to spend much effort to make those homes and towns still better. Their young people will share this affection, and they too will prefer to settle down among the old friends rather than wander aimlessly.

To make home life a fine art, we need to study the principles of taste, so that the home and its surroundings shall please the eye, and we shall love to look at it better than to wander. The home needs to be comfortable, sanitary, and healthful. Its operations need to conform to the best principles of household arts.

When homes are run on that basis, they produce happy and achieving people, who go out in the world with a determination to provide amply for those homes, and build a fine future. We have many such homes here and they assure the development of the community into one of the best centers of business, progress, and refinement.

A LAW WITH TEETH

The Michigan law—similar to the French Baumes law—which sends a man or woman to prison for life after the fourth conviction is a law with teeth. It gets more results against criminal activity than any other law that has been enacted by any other state for many years. Fearing life imprisonment the unwholesome characters of New York and Michigan, if they have been arrested several times, flee to other states. When other states adopt similar action a real offensive campaign against crime in the United States will have begun.

OFFENSIVE NOT DEFENSIVE

News dispatches say Chicago has at last begun to administer strong punches against law breakers. Several hundred additional policemen have been put on the streets to enforce the one o'clock closing law. A special grand jury is busy on other form of violation. Too long has Chicago been content with a defensive warfare on crime. The time has come for an aggressive campaign. It may lead the way for other cities.

COAL

Coal is a necessity for millions of people. It is cheap fuel for families all over the union. Coal mine troubles are of too much importance to be limited to state action. The federal government should take a hand at bringing about right relations between coal mine owners and miners. The proposal for a federal coal commission is a good one. There are great evils to be curbed and this can best be done by the United States government.

WORDS

It is said the advent of radio has added 5,000 words to the English language. We don't need any more words, but we do need a greater sense of accuracy and order in using them. It is said there are 450,000 words in the English language. Few use more than 2,000. There are perhaps millions of men and women who do not use more than 800 or 1,000 different words.

The art of language is as fascinating as the art of music or any other art, once you are thoroughly interested in it.

The collection of words for a vocabulary is one of the most interesting and worthwhile hobbies one can have.

NEWS COMMENT AND VIEWS

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, June 19.—Zealous efforts of Earl Carroll to wipe out memories of his recent stay in Atlanta prison with a musical revue exceeding in gorgeousness anything ever done on Broadway, has sent the beauty market shooting up and started a war among producers. Carroll has been raiding others shows for publicity, winning prizes with record salary of $125 to $300 a week for the best lookers, among them Gladys Glad, Katherine Burke and Dolores Grant. These are "show girls" as distinguished from chorus girls. They need not have singing or dancing talent; all they have to do is look pretty.

Despite exaggerated reports to the contrary, Flo Ziegfeld has been paying his prize beauties $65 a week, with most of the girls getting less. Other producers have lower salary scales. Carroll is offering from $125 to $300 a week for the best lookers, among them Gladys Glad, Katherine Burke and Dolores Grant. These are "show girls" as distinguished from chorus girls. They need not have singing or dancing talent; all they have to do is look pretty.

The "champagne bath" man intends to charge $11 nightly for first floor seats. No Broadway revue has ever obtained so much except for openings. Beauties of the class mentioned above sometimes earn more outside of a show than they do in—so long as they are in it. Being a member of the chorus of a famous hit gives them added value as models for artists, advertising illustrations, etc., and as after-show performers in night clubs. They also are much sought after for style shows and as movie extras. Girls who draw $500 a week dividends from beauty are not exceptional.

Despite the demand for statuesque beauties, Broadway is thronged with jobless chorines. Girls from road shows. Girls from burlesque. Girls from movie roles. Girls from shows that aren't so particular about face and figure. Conditions always are made worse at this season of the year by the influx of newcomers; every college and every town contributes its quota. The attractiveness of Hollywood has not made Broadway any less a magnet.

The season's campaign among the girls from groups to live co-operatively during the lean period. Some depend on remittances from homes they don't want to go to. Many impose on landladies who are used to being paid only in winter. Some get vacation jobs in stores, or go to resorts as waitresses or hostesses. When Autumn suggests itself, all flock back to what is to them the only street in the world, frequently quitting good jobs to gamble for poorer ones. Show business never releases its hold upon the affections of those it captures.

I am pleased to report that the demand for college jazz players has fallen off. Cafe and restaurant men and resort operators, noting a return to favor of slower music and sweeter pieces, are reducing their orchestras and changing programs to conform to the new trend. Radio is making it necessary for many smaller places to have musicians. There is, however, a larger call for college boys who qualify as bridge experts. Resort employment agencies report a demand for boys who can instruct guests the game or act as partners for lone wives.

Does Your Dog Reason?

If you think your dog has reasoning power, then try this experiment.

Roll a ball along the floor toward a wall, at an angle. Hold your dog where he can observe that the ball will come back to within a few feet of the starting point. If he desires the ball and really has reasoning power, then maybe he will not chase the ball but will remain right where he is and grab it after it has rolled back.

But the chances are that instead of doing this he will chase the ball clear to the wall and back again in a futile effort to overtake it. Dr. John B. Watson made this experiment hundreds of times on different dogs without discovering one that could figure out the short, easy way. He believes that the search for reasoning in animals will forever remain futile.

Why? "Because," he points out, "the big gap between mankind and brutes is made by the lack of language habits in the lower animals. Just stop and think what would happen to us if none of us humans were able to talk or communicate with one another. Imagine yourself as small as a dog, unable to talk, lacking hands with which to gesture, and then speculate upon how much you might learn even if spared to a ripe old age. Ask yourself how far you could get on your thinking processes if you had no language or no words to apply to the items about which you were thinking, or to serve as aids to memory. How much reasoning power would we develop?"

It is worth thinking about, too, that aside from inherent instincts a dog, unlike humans, learns nothing from experiences of previous generations. From birth we humans are told of different schemes and practices which have long been proved worthless, but the dog has to learn everything he does learn through his own senses. Considering this handicap, surely it must be conceded that perhaps a ten-year-old dog knows more than an old man would have learned under similar circumstances.

Another handicap of a dog is that, because incapable of follow-

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

By HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Now is the time when women must fortify themselves against summer beauty hazards. In a series of articles, of which this is the first, I am going to tell them how to do it.

All know the immediate effects of carelessness and neglect in the summer time. Tan and freckles, particularly the latter, leave nothing to the imagination. But there are other less visible and far more beauty-destroying after effects which follow foolish, needless exposure.

Tan is more than a surface discoloration. It carries with it a coarsening of skin texture, a harshness and thickness of the surface layers—which will remain long after the tan has been bleached away and forgotten. Two weeks of carelessness and abandon to the sun's rays will do permanent harm to your skin.

It often seems to me that the last generation had more common sense in preventing sunburn, tan, freckles and sallowness, than we "enlightened moderns" have. Shady picture hats probably had a fascination and coquetry all their own, but they were even more invaluable in protecting pretty eyes from the glare of the summer sun, and resultant squint lines—in preserving the lustre and sheen of the hair, and in safe-guarding the skin from all the complexion woes of summer. Vacation time is play-time. But usually it is no more than three or four weeks out of the whole fifty-two! It isn't worth while, for the momentary pleasure it gives you, to forget your hat, and your creams and protective balms, to have to pay for your folly the whole year through!

If you are one of these gay, happy-go-lucky modern sprites who cleave the waves like mermaids, romp across the tennis courts with a joyous unconcern for violet rays and sunburn, you should take precautionary measures to sun-proof your skin. How? Simple enough. Promise yourself never to leave the house without first patting carefully all over neck, face and throat enough sunproof balm or cream to neutralize the sun's rays! Then swim, dance, bathe or golf, just as you please, assured of protection against fall regrets.

But don't neglect your hands! They suffer, too, unless protected from summer's outdoor ravages. In my next article, I will tell how to guard the hands against ugliness.

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers. —Jewish Proverb.

Home Pasteurization. Mrs. L. lives on a farm and has two cows. The cows show by the tuberculin test that they are free from tuberculosis, and the most scrupulous care is taken in the milking and handling of the milk. Two young mothers from the city who are boarding with her are afraid to give this milk to their babies because it is not pasteurized. Will I tell her how to pasteurize it, and is it necessary?

If the cows are free from tuberculosis, and no diseased person is handling the milk afterwards, and the utensils are scrupulously clean, the unpasteurized milk should be alright for the children Mrs. L. However occasionally cows do get tuberculosis in between tests, so it might be wisest to pasteurize the milk. Pasteurization may be done at home by placing the bottle containing the milk in a pan of water, with the water coming to the height of the milk in the bottle. Bring the water nearly to a boil and set aside for thirty minutes; then take the bottle out, rapidly cool and keep cool.

Pasteurized milk loses none of its food value, with the exception of part of the vitamins which protect against scurvy. This is only of importance when it is given to babies who are on an exclusive milk diet. Pasteurization kills any dangerous forms of bacteria which may get into the milk. The anti-scorbutic vitamins can be supplied by orange juice, or tomato juice, or cabbage juice, or the juice of other fresh vegetables. One of these should be given a baby no matter what milk is used.

Milk which is pasteurized or boiled does not sour so rapidly as raw milk, and this must be remembered, for these milks may be stale and unwholesome without tasting sour.

We have a list of modern books on the general care and feeding of children which you may have if you are interested. The rules of the column are to send two cents in coin, to cover cost of printing and handling, and a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope, for all articles except the pamphlet on gaining and reducing. For a ditch ten cents in coin are required, in addition to the self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Marking Babies. "I am an expectant mother. I am very much worried over a fright I had, for fear of marking my baby. My brother, not knowing I was pregnant, flashed in front of my eyes a toy jointed snake which looked so real that I nearly fainted, and the first thing I did was to cover my face and cry. Dear Doctor, do you think this will mark my baby? I worry so that I can hardly sleep, as my mother says that I can." (Mrs. D.)

Mother is wrong, Mrs. D. You just forget that snake.

There is no nerve or blood connection between the mother and baby, and Nature has seen to it that it is well protected. We do not believe that maternal impressions, good or bad, will affect the baby; except that the bad ones, if dwelt on or worried over too much may cause the mother's nutrition to suffer and so the babe's. But that won't cause birthmarks.

If babies were going to be marked by any little scare or emotional upset the mother had, there would be none born without markings.

Just laugh at your scare, Mrs. D. Write to me when your baby comes and tell me how lovely it is. We have an article on the diet in pregnancy and nursing which you may have. See directions above for obtaining it.

Peas and Salmon Steak — In cooking new peas, a small onion adds a delicious flavor, but not at all oniony. Place a large tomato from a can on top of the salmon steak, blossom end down, and press down over edges. Place on top, a large piece of butter, and brown under flame in broiler. When well browned the steak will be heated through.

Rice Cakes—Beat two eggs, two cups cooked rice, half cup milk, half cup flour, salt. Fry in butter. Make cakes small.

Vegetable Plate — Assemble crisp, ribbons of lettuce, thin slices of carrot and white turnip, cucumber, tomato quarters, and one hard-cooked egg. Toss all vegetables lightly into a bowl into which has been placed one tablespoon of olive oil. Put egg in center, arrange vegetables around it, and serve with a snappy cream dressing.

Maplescotch Whip—In a double boiler cook, for one hour, one cup sugar, one cup syrup (corn), one cup cream. Add four beaten yolks and one tablespoon butter. When thick, remove and stir into it four whites whipped stiff. Add vanilla. Let cool and serve with a cherry on top.

Suggestions

If you have borrowed a book and are unlucky enough to spill water on some of its pages, slip a blotter on each side of the wet pages and press them with a medium hot iron until they are dry. It will prevent the leaves from crinkling.

Saves Time

See if you can save time this way when ironing. When ironing everyday handkerchiefs, iron them out flat and pile together. Then fold each one quickly, place in piles of about five each and press the iron heavily over each pile.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

KANSAS CITY, June 19.—Theodore E. Burton, who has announced his candidacy for the senate, is looked upon as a national figure even when a president is being chosen. Few folk can achieve that.

He is one of the original Ohio flower men. It's a shame that the man who LOOKS the most senatorial of any individual in public life, shouldn't BE one. It seems like such a waste of perfectly magnificent raw material.

This shouldn't be interpreted as implying that Congressman Burton is a "good looking" in the ordinary sense of the term. He's far from a beauty. What he does look like is a "great man." I doubt if there's another as imposing a presence at the national capital.

Burton has a massive figure and massive features and a massive head. He's very old. He somehow suggests solidity, even in the hurly-burly of the house of representatives—something like an aged American eagle, sitting in lonely dignity on his crag with a lot of sparrows and other small species flitting about, chirping and chattering, while he thinks.

But if he does take a notion suddenly to reach out a claw—bingo! go about two pecks of sparrows at a swipe.

What's more, the Ohio congressman IS just what he looks like. Not an eagle, of course, but one hum-dinger of a formidable old man.

He has to have a massive head to store his brains.

Speaking of suggestions, he suggests a freight car loaded with pig lead. Standing still, with its brakes set, it's inert enough. But once it's going, on a down grade, and all heck can't stop the darn thing.

There's no appearance of effort about old Buckeye.

A campaign for the senate is work—especially in a large, generally considered mighty hard populous state like Ohio. It must cover a tremendous amount of ground and an awful lot of people.

Even on comparatively young men, it's a prodigious physical strain.

Burton's nearer the four-score than he is to the 70-year mark, and he takes on the contract as casually as you please.

Well, blame it—doubtless he can afford to, on account of his evident enormous reserve. He doesn't have to put out his full strength—or any considerable fraction of it. A 10 per cent effort on his part, I'd guess, would be equivalent to 125 per cent of the average politician's kind.

Perhaps the reader will infer that I admire this ancient Ohioan. You bet I do.

He isn't a politician. By this I don't mean that he doesn't understand politics. I imagine that he understands 'em better than any ten men, rolled into one, whose constituents send 'em to Washington. But they're incidental to HIM—a necessary means to an end.

But was in the senate once before. When his term ended, he wasn't a candidate for reelection—not interested in any pending questions just then—took a seat in the house of representatives simply to keep his hand in. Imagine an ordinary politician making a choice like that!

Now it happens that he thinks the time's ripe to work for world peace, and he thinks he can do it better in the senate than the lower house. Therefore back into the senate he proposes to go.

"An earnest endeavor to awaken a greater interest of the people in public government, education upon public questions and the development of those moral and spiritual aspirations which are really the crowning distinction of a people"—that's his idea of the duty of a public man.

How does it compare with the usual line of political poppycock?

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Engaged to One, Loves Another

Be sure of your feelings before you become engaged or marry, as much unhappiness comes from finding, when it is too late, that you love someone else. And the worst of it is, that the innocent party always suffers most. A girl who in this predicament writes as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am in hot water, for I am engaged to a fellow whom I thought a great deal of. He has a brother who, at the time we made the announcement of our engagement, was in the United States marines. I had never seen him before. Now, Mrs. Lee, since he came home he is very much in love with me and, of course, I am in love with him. He wants me to give back the engagement ring and go with him and be married. Now please won't you advise me if I would be doing wrong, for, after seeing him, I can never be happy with his brother. I don't seem to have any friends for I am not one who smokes and drinks, for I could not do it. Where can I find girls who don't do those things, or should I start also?"

"BLUE EYED BLOND." My experience is that there are plenty of girls who don't smoke or drink and even girls who do like those who do not. Certainly don't do things you think wrong just to make friends whom you would not admire anyway. As to the engagement, don't marry a man you can't love, but give him back the very beautiful diamond. And tell him about his brother. And if you decide to marry this brother—with whom you think you are in love—be very sure it is love you have for him, and that he really loves you. It does not sound very honorable that he made love to you knowing you were engaged to his brother, but possibly he could not conceal his feelings.

My answer to "I Ask You" would be to give the boy friend "the cold shoulder," as you suggest. The fact that you like him a good deal is all the more reason why you should have nothing to do with him. He might catch you in a moment of weakness and you would be sorry all your life.

Broken Hearted Blue Eyes, there is no reason why you should not write your boy friend and tell him you misunderstood, and it was your fault, and you are sorry. Or call him up, and tell him.

"Oh, dear me," wailed Llama, "what shall I do? Jaguar can run faster than I can. Where shall I hide? There is no place where my enemy could not find me. I am lost. Tonight my poor wife will roam the plains looking for me but she will not find me. My baby will cry for his daddy but I shall not answer his cry. Why? Because I shall be lying stiff and still on the cold, cold ground. Oh why was I so foolish? Why didn't I look where I was wandering? Why didn't I keep my eyes and ears open?"

As Llama spoke Jaguar moved his long tail faster and faster until he was fairly lashing the ground. You ought to have seen his face, folks! How pleased he looked. He licked his chops and his red tongue made us shiver. Oliver Ostrich, of us all, didn't seem afraid. No longer did he tremble, but he spoke to Llama, and if we hadn't been so scared we would have been surprised at what he said.

"Now don't you worry, Llama, old chap. You may not like me, but I am going to save you just the same. Leave Jaguar to me, and when you see me strike him, run for your life." Bobolink stopped chirping and leaned from his clover stalk to nibble at a seed near him. Then he asked:

"Well, folks, how do you like my story? Is it interesting?"

Peter could have shaken the little bird.

"Interesting? It is great!" cried the boy. "But why don't you go on? Did the Llama run?"

"Oh, Bob just does that to tease us," grumbled Sonny-Bunny. "He always stops in the most exciting part."

"I just wanted to know what you thought," chuckled Bobolink. "Well, to go on with the tale, 'What do you think Ostrich did?' 'Kicked the Jaguar, of course,' said Mrs. Gray Rabbit, but Bobolink shook his head.

could hear the strokes as he beat the ground. Now the Jaguar's eyes were mere slits, but through them we could see the wicked gleam as he looked at the Llama.

"The Kick That Crippled Jaguar."

Shield Hint.

Those who must use shields even in sleeveless dresses may find the following suggestion helpful. Cut one shield along the stitching which joins the two halves. Then sew the edge of your sleeveless dress with you will have ample protection without any feeling of bunchedness under the arm.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD'S DELIGHT—The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the Lord; but the prayer of the upright is his delight. —Prov. 15:8.

BILLIONS FOR AMUSEMENT

Out of the figures of the internal revenue bureau on federal returns from amusement taxes the statistically minded will derive pleasant speculations about the probable outlay of the American people every year for amusements. If admittance taxes for ten years from 1918 to 1927, inclusive, totaled $537,830,804, then the taxable amusements must have taken in somewhere close to $6,000,000,000. But the taxable amusements are only a fraction of the whole. Nobody can even guess at the total of money paid for admission to entertainments for purposes that put them outside the scope of the federal tax collector.

In three straight years 1924-5-6, the federal rake-off on world's series games exceeded $100,000 a year, and bulked to beyond $347,000 total. In 1927 they well off to $78,659. In view of the fact that the 1927 series only ran four straight games, while the others all went seven, iconoclastic critics will naturally discover an excellent reason why a world series does so much alternating.

Whatever anybody may say about prize fighting, it has figured large in the federal accounts. The five heavyweight bouts in which the scowling Dempsey engaged from 1921 to 1927 contributed precisely $782,202.20 to the treasury. It is true that Professor Tunney participated on two occasions that netted Uncle Sam $417,257, but the Manassa Mauler had a hand, or, to be precise, a pair of hands, in the whole $782,202.20.

Big figures are characteristic of big business. Big business is the pride and glory of this big nation. And certainly the diamond and the squared ring classify as big business—from the box office standpoint.

WHY SHOULD HOMES BE DULL

"The fine art of living" was called the keynote of the recent convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, held at San Antonio, Texas. The federation has been working for four years for the improvement of American homes.

Millions of people look at home as a dull kind of place. For such ones it is a center of boredom, mitigated by the fact that it is the place where they sleep.

If the home life can be made a more ideal one, people will love their homes so they will hate to leave them, they will be rooted in the good towns where they live, and be willing to spend much effort to make those homes and towns still better. Their young people will share this affection, and they too will prefer to settle down among the old friends rather than wander aimlessly.

To make home life a fine art, we need to study the principles of taste, so that the home and its surroundings shall please the eye, and we shall love to look at it better than to wander. The home needs to be comfortable, sanitary, and healthful. Its operations need to conform to the best principles of household arts.

When homes are run on that basis, they produce happy and achieving people, who go out in the world with a determination to provide ample for those homes, and build a fine future. We have many such homes here and they assure the development of the community into one of the best centers of business, progress, and refinement.

A LAW WITH TEETH

The Michigan law—similar to the New York Baumes law—which sends a man or woman to prison for life after the fourth conviction is a law with teeth. It gets more results against criminal activity than any other law that has been enacted by any other state for many years. Fearing life imprisonment the unwholesome characters of New York and Michigan, if they have been arrested several times, flee to other states. When other states adopt similar action a real offensive campaign against crime in the United States will have begun.

OFFENSIVE NOT DEFENSIVE

News dispatches say Chicago has at last begun to administer strong punches against law breakers. Several hundred additional policemen have been put on the streets to enforce the one o'clock closing law. A special grand jury is busy on other form of violation.

Too long has Chicago been content with a defensive warfare on crime. The time has come for an aggressive campaign. It may lead the way for other cities.

COAL

Coal is a necessity for millions of people. It is cheap fuel for families all over the union. Coal mine troubles are of too much importance to be limited to state action. The federal government should take a hand at bringing about right relations between coal mine owners and miners. The proposal for a federal coal commission is a good one. There are great evils to be curbed and this can best be done by the United States government.

WORDS

It is said the advent of radio has added 5,000 words to the English language. We don't need any more words, but we do need a greater sense of accuracy and order in using them. It is said there are 450,000 words in the English language. Few use more than 2,000. There are perhaps millions of men and women who do not use more than 800 or 1,000 different words.

The art of language is as fascinating as the art of music or any other art, once you are thoroughly interested in it.

The collection of words for a vocabulary is one of the most interesting and worth-while hobbies one can have.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, June 19.—Zealous efforts of Earl Carroll to wipe out memories of his recent stay in Atlanta prison with a musical revue exceeding in gorgeousness anything ever done on Broadway, has sent the beauty market shooting up and sending a shudder among producers. Carroll has been raiding others shows for pulchritude, winning girls with record salary offerings.

Despite exaggerated reports to the contrary, Flo Ziegfeld has been paying his prize beauties $65 a week, with most of the girls getting less. Other producers have lower salary scales. Carroll is offering from $125 to $300 a week for the best lookers, among them Gladys Glad, Kathryn Burke and Dolores Grant. These are "show girls" as distinguished from chorus girls. They need not have singing or dancing talent; all they have to do is look pretty.

The "champagne bath" man intends to charge $11 nightly for first floor seats. No Broadway revue has ever obtained so much except for openings.

Beauties of the class mentioned above sometimes earn more outside of a show than they do in it. Being a member of the chorus of a famous hit gives them added value as models for artists, advertising illustrations, etc., and as after-show performers in night clubs. They also are much sought as mannequins for style shows and as movie extras. Girls who draw $500 a week dividends from beauty are not exceptional.

Despite the demand for statuette beauties, Broadway is thronged with jobless chorines. Girls from road shows. Girls from burlesque. Girls from movie revues. Girls from shows that aren't so particular about face and figure. Conditions always are made worse at this season of the year by the influx of newcomers; every college and every town contributes its quota.

Hollywood has not made Broadway any less a magnet.

The seasoned campaigners among the girls from groups to live co-operatively during the lean period. Some depend on remittances from homes they don't want to go to. Many impose on landladies who are used to being paid only in winter. Some get vacation jobs in stores, or go to resorts as waitresses or hostesses. When Autumn suggests itself, all flock back to what is to them the only street in the world, frequently quitting good jobs to gamble for poorer ones. Show business never releases its hold upon the affections of those it captures.

I am pleased to report that the demand for college boy jazz players has fallen off. Cafe and restaurant men and resort operators, noting a return to favor of slower music and sweeter pieces, are reducing their orchestras and changing programs to conform to the new trend. Radio is making it necessary for many smaller places to have musicians.

There is, however, a larger call for college boys who qualify as bridge experts. Resort employment agencies report a demand for boys who can instruct guests the game or act as partners for lone wives.

Does Your Dog Reason?

If you think your dog has reasoning power, then try this experiment:

Roll a ball along the floor toward a wall, at an angle. Hold your dog where he can observe that the ball will come back to within a few feet of the wall. If he desires the ball and really has reasoning power, he may be he will not chase the ball but will remain right where he is and grab it after it has rolled back.

But the chances are that instead of doing this he will chase the ball clear to the wall and back again in a futile effort to overtake it. Dr. John B. Watson made this experiment hundreds of times on different dogs without discovering one that could figure out the short, easy way. He believes that the search for reasoning in animals will forever remain futile.

Why? "Because," he points out, "the big gap between mankind and brutes is made by the lack of language habits in the lower animals. Just stop and think what would happen to us if none of us humans were able to talk or communicate with one another. Imagine yourself as small as a dog, unable to talk, lacking hands with which to gesture, and then speculate upon how much you might learn even if spared to a ripe old age. Ask yourself how far you could go in your thinking processes if you had no language or no words to apply to the items about which you were thinking, or to serve as aids to memory. How much reasoning power would we develop?"

It is worth thinking about, too, that, aside from inborn instincts, a dog, unlike humans, learns nothing from experiences of previous generations. From birth we humans are told of different schemes and practices which have long been proved worthless, but the dog has to learn everything he does learn through his own senses. Considering this handicap, surely it must be conceded that perhaps a ten-year-old dog knows more than an old man could have learned under similar circumstances.

Another handicap of a dog is that, because unable to follow ab-

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

By HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Now is the time when women must fortify themselves against summer beauty hazards. In a series of articles, of which this is the first, I am going to tell them how to do it.

All know the immediate effects of carelessness and neglect in the summer time. Tan and freckles, particularly the latter, leave nothing to the imagination. But there are other less visible and far more beauty-destroying after-effects which follow foolish, needless exposure.

Tan is more than a surface discoloration. It carries with it a coarsening of skin texture, a harshness and thickness of the surface layers—which will remain long after the tan has been bleached away.

Two weeks of carelessness and abandonment to the sun's rays will do permanent harm to your skin. It often seems to me that the last generation had more common sense in preventing sunburn, tan, freckles and sallowness, than we "enlightened moderns" have.

Shady picture hats probably had a fascination and coquetry all their own, but they were even more invaluable in protecting pretty eyes from the glare of the summer sun, and resultant squint lines—in preserving the lustre and sheen of the hair, and in safe-guarding the skin from all the complexion woes of summer.

Vacation time is play-time. But usually it is no more than three or four weeks out of the whole fifty-two! It isn't worth while, for the momentary pleasure it gives you, to forget your hat, and your creams and protective balms, to have to pay for your folly the whole year through!

If you are one of these gay, happy-go-lucky modern sprites who cleave the waves like mermaids, romp across the tennis courts with a joyous unconcern for violet rays and sunburn, you should take precautionary measures to sun-proof your skin.

How? Simple enough. Promise yourself never to leave the house without first patting carefully all over neck, face and throat enough sunproof balm or cream to neutralize the sun's rays! Then swim, dance, bathe or golf, just as you please, assured of protection against all regrets.

But don't neglect your hands! They suffer, too, unless protected from summer's outdoor ravages. In my next article, I will tell how to guard the hands against ugliness.

He licked his chops and his red tongue made us shiver. Oliver Ostich, of all, didn't seem afraid. No longer did he tremble, but he spoke to Llama, and if we hadn't been so scared we would have been surprised at what he said.

"Now don't you worry, Llama, old chap. You may not like me, but I am going to save you just the same. Leave Jaguar out flat and when you see me strike him, run for your life!"

Bobolink stopped chirping and leaned from his clover stalk to nibble at a seed near him. Then he asked:

"Well, folks, how do you like my story? Is it interesting?"

Peter could have shaken the little bird.

"Interesting? It is great!" cried the boy. "But why don't you go on? Did the Llama run?"

"Oh, Bob just does that to tease us," grumbled Sorry-Bunny. "He always stops in the most exciting part."

"I just wanted to know what you thought," chuckled Bobolink. "Well, to go on with the tale. What do you think Ostich did?"

could hear the strokes as he beat the ground. Now the Jaguar's eyes were mere slits, but through them we could see the wicked gleam as he looked at the Llama.

"AS THE GREAT CAT ROSE INTO THE AIR, OSTICH STRUCK OUT WITH HIS FOOT!"

He looked exactly as if he were going to jump. Where had we seen something like that before? A flash white nudged me with her wing and we both remembered.

Next—"The Kick That Crippled Jaguar."

Shield Hint

Those who must use shields even in sleeveless dresses may find the following suggestion helpful. Cut one shield along the stitching which joins the two halves. Then sew the edge which was cut along the edge of your sleeveless dress and you will have ample protection without any feeling of bunniness under the arm.

ROTARY OUT HITS KIWANIS TO WIN AMERICAN LEAGUE VICTORY

Rotarians outbatted the Kiwanis Club, cellar occupants of the American Softball League for a 28 to 12 victory Monday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

REDS NOT THROUGH; WIN OVERTIME TILT FROM LOOP LEADERS

NEW YORK, June 19.—Baseball fandom turned its attention to the Red Sox, who again today, after a 28 to 12 victory, repelled the Phils with just four safeties yesterday.

After a hectic first session in which the Quakers nipped him for three hits and two tallies Petty tightened up his delivery and quelled the bats of his hosts until the ninth frame when he yielded to a single, Jimmy Ring, the Phils' twelfth key things fairly well under control until the closing inning when he slipped two coqs and allowed a brace of hits, one of which proved costly—Hendrick scoring the winning run on Herman's single. Timely batting by the Brooklynites aided materially in the victory.

Heavy hitting, punctuated with homers by Rafael Hornsby and Kiki Cuyler, plus more than a score of runs, featured the double header split by Chicago and Boston.

"Big Bill" Thompson's "bat boys" proved no match for Rajah and his clan at bat and in the field and were humiliated to the tune of 10 to 2 in the first game. But the Cubs more than avenged for their defeat by smothering the home-owners with twelve coats of whitewash, taking the second game 12 to 0. Boston required the services of four pitchers, including Kent Greenfield to hold the Loop City diamond artist to twenty hits, two of which were circuit clouts by Cuyler.

The Cincinnati Reds nosed out the St. Louis Cards in an exciting fourteen inning game, winning 4 to 3. Going into the ninth frame the Reds led by a one run margin. Bottomley reversed matters with a timely homer. But a single by Kolp, relief pitcher, with two out and Dreesen on third, settled the contest for the Reds in the fourteenth inning.

CONDITION OF BOB KELLY IMPROVES; RECEIVES FAMILY

Improvement was noted Monday night in the condition of Captain Robert Kelly, this city, air reserve pilot, who is confined in University Hospital, Columbus, suffering from a broken right arm and other painful injuries sustained when an airplane crashed at Columbus Sunday night.

Hospital physicians believe that Kelly may be forced to remain at the hospital several weeks.

X-rays taken disclosed bruised ligaments but no broken bones in the body or shoulder. Another X-ray was to be taken Tuesday morning.

Both legs were bruised, his hands lacerated and he complained particularly of the right side of the body.

His wife and mother, this city, went to Columbus Sunday night after being notified of the accident. Mrs. Kelly's mother, Mrs. Marcus Shoup, and son, Marcus, Jr., went to Columbus Tuesday morning to visit Kelly.

Captain Kelly is an experienced flyer. After the accident he is said to have declared that his controls jammed, causing the plane to plunge down nose first, strike the gable of a house, a garage roof and then crash to the ground in a vacant lot. Harry E. Neal, Columbus, passenger in the plane, was also hurt.

ALL OUT DOORS AND WHERE TO GO

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—Theodore Roosevelt said: "A people without children would face a hopeless future; a country without trees is almost as helpless; forests which are so used that they cannot renew themselves will soon vanish, and with them all their benefits. When you help to preserve our forests or plant new ones you are acting the part of good citizens."

If the outdoors is to be kept as a fit place to enjoy wholesome recreation every outdoorsman must take a vital interest in preservation of forests and the wild places. This is part of the duty of every camper, tourist, hunter or fisherman. American timber is being cut much faster than it is being planted or grown. As the forests go, the game, wild life and fishes go with them.

The pleasure-loving Americans in their thoughtlessness and speed-thrift way are taking too much away from the outdoors and giving too little back. There must be replacement of forests as well as replacement of game and fish life. Great strides are being made by forestry departments, in various states and in a score of colleges, but each individual "outdoor" should contribute his or her share to forest preservation.

Fifty years ago America had no trained foresters. It was then believed that our vast timber resources never could be used up. Today no one knows better than the editors of the newspapers the necessity for forest conservation and restoration. They liberally and willingly give many columns of valuable space to educating the public as to the needs of forest areas.

With this in mind every camper should remember that one match carelessly thrown away, or one cigarette thoughtlessly thrown aside, may burn a million feet of timber—and may cost lives. Every camper should be put out with water before leaving. Campfires should never be built where they can spread and cause a forest fire. It is stated on reliable authority that due to carelessness of campers an area almost as large as the State of New York has been burned over by forest fires in a single year.

It is good sportsmanship to make sure that YOU are not responsible for a forest fire. When you go to the forest states or to Canada hunting or fishing keep this ever in mind.

Here are a few good locations for deer and bear if you are planning a big game hunt this fall. (Later good locations for moose will be given).

La Tuque, Quebec. About 100 miles from Quebec City. Reached by Canadian Pacific or Canadian National Railway from Montreal to Quebec and Canadian National from Quebec. Good fishing for trout in season. Deer and bear plentiful. The outfit in this territory who can advise as to locations and cost is Armand Tremblay, at La Tuque. Special railway rates to sportsmen.

St. Felicien, Quebec. St. Felicien is 200 miles north of Quebec City. It is on the Ashuapmouchouan River. C. W. Bates, guide, can tell all about this territory. He is reached by mail at St. Felicien. Ohio sportsmen can reach St. Felicien via Detroit to Montreal over Canadian National or Canadian Pacific and from Quebec via Canadian National to destination. It's not advisable to motor.

STAR REDLEGS SHINE BRIGHTLY

Critz to Ford. Ford to Critz. That's the combination on the Cincinnati Reds who are in a fair way to knock a long standing record into a cocked hat. Critz, second base, and Ford, shortstop, of the Redlegs, are about the smoothest working pair that has been seen around any keystone sack for years. Not so long ago they were considered a weak spot on the team, but how times change! This sprightly pair have pulled off 80 double plays to date and are one of the major reasons for the Cincinnati club being up among the leaders. They are out to make a new record. More power to them.

Fishing Chats with The Old Angler

NUMBER EIGHT
If you adopt the mobile plan of motor camping for your angling trips, about the first problem that will arise is selecting a tent. Today equipping the millions of camping sportsmen and tourists is a great industry, and tents to suit any demand are to be had in a number of types.

In any case, buy a well advertised and standard make, and you will likely select one of the handy light-weight umbrellas, either with center pole or poleless, and you will make no mistake in either. Select one made of close-woven duck, drill or other textile and it must be waterproof and guaranteed to remain so, also fire and mildew proof.

It must have double screened door and windows to repel the buzzing and flying insects, and have a water-proof canvas floor to keep out snakes and other crawling pests.

Good strong guy ropes always in place and iron pegs will keep your rag house in place even in fierce storms. It is well to select a size larger than you now require, for your family or party may increase and the extra room will come handy, and there is little extra cost, weight or bulk. The whole tent goes into a waterproof bag and carries on a running board, permitting car door to open.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of helpful hints to fishermen, appearing exclusively in The Gazette.

FLYERS AGAIN FAIL TO LOCATE NOBILE

ROME, June 19.—Radio advices from the Citta Di Milano today stated that Lieut. Lutzwold Holm, and Capt. Riser-Larsen again flew over the position given by General Umberto Nobile without sighting the Italian explorer or his marooned crew.

Nobile, however, radioed that he had seen one plane about a mile and a half away but had no way of attracting its attention.

King's Bay advices also stated that Commandant Madelena, flying the Italian seaplane Savoia-55, had arrived at the Spitzbergen outpost and would soon be ready to scour the Arctic wastes for signs of Nobile's encampment on the ice.

Three other relief planes now enroute to King's Bay, were expected to arrive today.

PRESBYTERIANS ELECT MODERATOR
WOOSTER, O., June 19.—With Dr. Franklin D. Reinhold, Warren, unanimously elected moderator of the Presbyterian synod of Ohio, 500 laymen and pastors today continued the week's session. Rev. Reinhold succeeds Rev. Lippincott, of Cadiz.

Personalities IN SPORT

JACK SHARKEY
John Coccoskey was born at Binghamton, N. Y., October 6, 1902, of Lithuanian-American parents.

Johnny moved to Boston with his folks at an early age, and grew up into the ranks of professional pugilists there.

As a boy, Johnny's two fistic idols were Jack Dempsey and old Tom Sharkey. So he took the first name of Dempsey and the last of old Tom for his ring moniker.

Jack Sharkey, as he was now known, started in 1924 as a sensational young heavyweight. In 1927 he swept through the heavyweight eliminations in fine fashion, and met Jack Dempsey in a fight to decide who was to meet Champion Gene Tunney.

Dempsey knocked out Sharkey on the night of July 21, with a terrific punch. Sharkey was idle for months.

Early this year Sharkey was easily defeated by Johnny Risko in an eliminations battle.

Sportistory

Tuesday, June 19
Henry Louis Gehrig, first baseman and home run hitter of the New York Yankees, was born in New York City, 1903.

Fred Fulton, heavyweight contender for the world's title, defeated Sam Langford, in Boston, in seven rounds, 1917.

Mile. Fran Lacosta drove an automobile one mile on a dirt track in 45.45 seconds, 1926, a world record for a woman.

Joey Silvers, lightweight, was born in New York City, 1903.

Young Lustig, who fought such good fighters as Freddy Welch, Pal Moore, Johnny Dundee and Knockout Brown was born in 1895.

Earl Smith, Pittsburgh catcher, was suspended by President John Heydler of the National League, 1927.

STATE EXAMINERS CHECK CITY BOOKS

Regular state examination of books of the city offices is being conducted by Frank B. Thomas, assisted by R. D. Huffman, representatives in this district of the state auditor's office with headquarters in Dayton.

The examination is usually conducted every year but in this case no check of the books has been made for two years. The examiners estimate that probably three weeks will be required to complete the work.

WILL RE-OPEN MINE IN BELMONT COUNTY

CLEVELAND, June 19.—That the Sauters Coal Company is contemplating re-opening its mine within a few days at Gaylord, O., in Belmont County, was intimated today by C. Pease, in charge of the sales department of the Sauters Company, offices of which are located here.

C. D. Sauters, head of the company, Pease declared, is now at the mine conferring with Superintendent J. E. Stillwell regarding the attitude of miners accepting employment at $5 per day.

HAZARDOUS TRUCK RIDE

STONINGTON, Conn.—A fire engine driven by a man clad only in pajamas roared through the central streets, pursued by half a dozen uniformed men on motorcycles. Residents of the town thought they were seeing the filming of an exciting movie, and enjoyed the scene immensely. They thought differently, however, when, as the fire engine slowed to a halt in heavy traffic, one policeman jumped from his machine upon the fire engine, climbed up to the driver, and handcuffed him. It developed that the pajama-clad driver was an inmate of a state insane asylum who had escaped.

ROTARY OUT HITS KIWANIS TO WIN AMERICAN LEAGUE VICTORY

Rotarians outbatted the Kiwanis Club, cellar opponents of the American Softball League for a 25 to 12 victory Monday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

In the absence of Kimber, regular pitcher, "Brownie" Baker, who formed on the mound for the Rotarians and breezed along in fine shape.

After a hectic first session in which the Quakers nipped him for three hits and two tallies Petty tightened up his delivery and quelled the bats of his hosts until the ninth frame when he yielded to a single, Jimmy Ring, the Phillia's twirler kept things fairly well under control until the closing inning when he slipped two coqs and allowed a brace of hits, one of which proved costly—Hendrick scoring the winning run on Herman's single. Timely batting by the Brooklyns added materially in the victory.

Heavy hitting, punctuated with homers by Rajah Hornsby and Kiki Crier, plus more than a score of runs, featured the double header split by Chicago and Boston.

"Big Bill" Thompson's "bat boys" proved no match for Rajah and his clan at bat and in the field and were humiliated to the tune of 10 to 2 in the first game. But the Cubs more than avenged for their defeat by smothering the bean-eaters with twelve coats of whitewash, taking the second game 12 to 0.

Four pitchers, including Kent Greenfield to hold the Loop City diamond artist to twenty hits, two of which were circuit clouts by Cuyler.

The Cincinnati Reds nosed out the St. Louis Cards in an exciting fourteen inning game, winning 4 to 3. Going into the ninth frame the Reds led by a one run margin. Bottomley reversed matters with a timely homer. But a single by Kolp, reliever pitcher, with two out and Dreesen on third, settled the contest for the Reds in the fourteenth inning.

Adair, Kiwanis pitcher, was batted hard and also suffered from indifferent support.

It was a rather loosely played contest and the bases were often crowded to capacity.

Kiwanians have yet to record their first victory.

The league-leading Lang Chevrolet Co., plays Carroll-Binder Co. in an important American League tussle Tuesday night.

Kiwanis lineup: Kuhn, 3b; Coates, ss; Paullin, c; H. C. Messenger, 1b; Paires, 2b; Dunkel, rf; Adair, p; K. Babb, cf; J. C. Marshall lf.

Rotary lineup: S. McClellan, lf; Baldwin, 3b; Myler, 3b; Erwin, 1b; Stout, 1b; T. McClellan, c; Sayre, 2b; McPherson, cf; Miller, rf.

CONDITION OF BOB KELLY IMPROVES; RECEIVES FAMILY

Improvement was noted Monday night in the condition of Captain Robert Kelly, this city, air reserve pilot, who is confined in University Hospital, Columbus, suffering from a broken right arm and other painful injuries sustained when an airplane crashed at Columbus Sunday night.

Hospital physicians believe that Kelly may be forced to remain at the hospital several weeks.

X-rays taken disclosed bruised ligaments but no broken bones in the body or shoulder. Another X-ray was to be taken Tuesday morning.

Both legs were bruised, his hands lacerated and he complained particularly of the right side of the body.

His wife and mother, this night, went to Columbus Sunday night after being notified of the accident.

Mrs. Kelly's mother, Mrs. Marcus Shoup, and son, Marcus Jr., went to Columbus Tuesday morning to visit Kelly.

Captain Kelly is an experienced flyer. After the accident he is said to have declared that his controls jammed, causing the plane to plunge into the water.

After the crash, Kelly and his wife were taken to a garage and then to a vacant lot. Harry E. Neal, Columbus, passenger in the plane, was also hurt.

He is said to have been thrown from the plane and landed in the water. Kelly's condition is said to be improving.

He is said to be able to move his right arm and is expected to be able to walk in a few days.

STAR REDLEGS SHINE BRIGHTLY

Critz to Ford, Ford to Critz. That's the combination on the Cincinnati Reds who are in a fair way to knock a long standing record into a cocked hat. Critz, second base, and Ford, shortstop, of the Redlegs, are about the smoothest working pair that has been seen around any keystone sack for years. Not so long ago they were considered a weak spot on the team, but how times changed! This sprightly pair have pulled off 80 double plays to date and are one of the major reasons for the Cincinnati club being up among the leaders. They are out to make a new record. More power to them.

RAIN HALTS QUIT MATCH ON MONDAY

Personalities IN SPORT

JACK SHARKEY

John Coccosey was born at Binghamton, N. Y., October 6, 1902, of Lithuanian-American parents.

Johnny moved to Boston with his folks at an early age, and grew up into the ranks of professional pugilists there.

As a boy, Johnny's two fistic idols were Jack Dempsey and old Tom Sharkey. So he took the first name of Dempsey and the last of old Tom for his ring moniker.

Jack Sharkey, as he was now known, started in 1924 as a sensational young heavyweight. In 1927 he swept through the heavyweight eliminations in fine fashion, and met Jack Dempsey in a fight to decide who was to meet Champion Gene Tunney.

Dempsey knocked out Sharkey on the night of July 21, with a terrific punch. Sharkey was idle for months.

Early this year Sharkey was easily defeated by Johnny Risko in an eliminations battle.

SPORTISTORY

Tuesday, June 19.

Henry Louis Gehrig, first baseman and home run hitter of the New York Yankees, was born in New York City, 1903.

Fred Fulton, heavyweight contender for the world's title, defeated Sam Langford, in Boston, in seven rounds, 1917.

Mlle. Fran Lacosta drove an automobile one mile on a dirt track in 45 4-5 seconds, 1926, a world record for a woman.

Joey Silvers, lightweight, was born in New York City, 1903.

Young Lustig, who fought such good fighters as Freddy Welch, Pal Moore, Johnny Dundee and Knockout Brown was born in 1895.

Earl Smith, Pittsburgh catcher, was suspended by President John Heydler of the National League, 1927.

ROME, June 19.—Radio advices from the Citta Di Milano today stated that Lieut. Lutzwitz Hohl and Capt. Risler-Larsen again flew over the position given by General Umberto Nobile without sighting the Italian explorer or his marooned crew.

Nobile, however, radioed that he had seen one plane about a mile and a half away but had no way of attracting its attention.

King's Bay advices also stated that Commandant Madelena, flying the Italian seaplane Savoia-55, had arrived at the Spitzbergen outpost and would soon be ready to scour the Arctic wastes for signs of Nobile's encampment on the ice.

Three other relief planes now enroute to King's Bay, were expected to arrive today.

PRESBYTERIANS ELECT MODERATOR

WOOSTER, O., June 19.—With Dr. Franklin D. Reinhold, Warren, unanimously elected moderator of the Presbyterian synod of Ohio, 500 laymen and pastors today continued the week's session. Rev. Reinhold succeeds Rev. Lippincott, of Cadiz.

The annual assembly got under way last night, when Rev. Lippincott, elected moderator of the assembly, following which the new moderator was chosen.

The synodical society and the Women's School of Missions are meeting jointly with the synod.

"SENTENCED" TO CHURCH

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—A group of gangsters were arraigned in court on a charge of robbing a cigar store. All, it developed, had previous police records but one. The judge carefully investigated each case and sentenced the gangsters to San Quentin prison. The one, however, that had not had a prison record so far, will have to repent his crime in church. He was given ten years' probation on condition that he go to church every Sunday.

Farm Notes

FARMERS SAVE MUCH

The highest patronage dividend ever paid farmers of the state representing savings made by them in cooperative purchasing is now being distributed among farm bureau members. Announcement of the dividend was made to service men of the organization from nearly every county in Columbus June 13, the day following the dedication of the new state headquarters.

The total amount distributed as patronage dividends on cooperative purchases of fertilizer during the spring season just closed is $66,544.44, according to officials of the Greene County farm bureau. The per cent of the dividend is higher than ever paid through the organization, and was made possible by an increase of nearly 75 per cent.

Service agents for the farm bureau in all parts of the state, encouraged by the increase this spring are planning to increase their efforts this fall and make this year's tonnage of cooperatively purchased fertilizer the largest ever handled.

The farm bureau of this county has $114,909 which is to be distributed as part of the dividend.

Highland, Stark, Lorain, Columbiana, and Mahoning County farmers will receive the largest shares of the total dividend, the total check for Highland County farmers being more than $2800.

Chicago Chatter

BY JUNE QUINBY

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to Gazette

CHICAGO, June 18—Social arbiters in Chicago are a thing of the past. Instead of social queens, Chicago has its queens of business, finance, education, politics and the arts.

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who by right of millions and family might easily be social arbiters, has gone into business, the head of a mammoth real estate company. She is also active in the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Mrs. Samuel Insull, wife of the millionaire public utilities magnate, is an actress and producer. She has beauty and charm, and might easily reign, but prefers to be the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Mrs. Anna U. Dalley, Terre Haute, Ind., organizing officer, presided at the meeting, which was featured by a large attendance. Institution of the local circle will take place Sunday, July 1, it is announced.

A called meeting will be held Tuesday night, for all Catholic women of the city, from sixteen years up, at the school at 7:30 o'clock.

side the spectators shouted and waved hats, handkerchiefs and flags. The cheering increased as the Friendship appeared around the stern of a big docked liner.

When Miss Earhart, wearing her flying clothes, appeared in the doorway of the cabin the welcoming din reached its climax.

It has been reported from Llanelli, Wales, that Capt. H. H. Bailey, European representative of the Friendship's flight, was aboard an accompanying Imperial Airways plane, but when the Friendship reached here it was found he was not on board. He was the first one to leave the plane. Then he turned to assist Miss Earhart into the launch standing alongside. Then Pilot Stultz stepped into the boat. Mechanic Gordon remained behind the others to cover the motors with heavy canvas to keep out the moisture. After he had finished this job to his satisfaction he also got into the launch.

Miss Earhart looked both proud and happy. She had had a good night's rest in an old fashioned "homey" hotel at Pembrey, Wales, near Llanelli, and showed no trace of the weariness entailed by the long and dangerous sky voyage over the ocean. Her face was flushed and her eyes shining.

As she stepped ashore she was handed a huge bunch of American Beauty roses by Mrs. Guest.

Mrs. L. M. Welsh, the lady mayor of Southampton, made a little speech of welcome, saying how delighted the people of the city were to greet the first woman to accomplish a trans-Atlantic flight.

Miss Earhart eliminated her own self entirely.

Following a luncheon there was a public reception when many persons met Miss Earhart, shook hands with her and congratulated her upon her feat. It was arranged that the three flyers should have a rest of a couple of hours before leaving for London. After the reception Miss Earhart began to look a little tired, but was entirely composed and at her ease. Her modesty and retiring demeanor won the hearts of those who met her. She was described as "typically feminine."

American Consul John M. Savage was delighted over the fresh honors accruing to Americans in the international field of aviation.

"Americans may well be proud of Miss Earhart and her flying companions," said the consul.

Since early morning crowds had been gathering along the harbor front to greet the Friendship, the plane was first sighted over Calicut—the seat of a great British airman—at 1:15 o'clock. A blanket of gray fog obscured the sky and the plane was barely visible through the haze.

The main twister came to earth again in Newport Township, ten miles east of Marietta, where it completely wrecked the Eddy farm home. Mrs. Eddy was planned in the wreckage. She was rescued by neighbors and rushed to the hospital. Her right leg was found crushed and broken.

The three storms struck at intervals of half an hour as soon as the first destruction over area of country fifteen miles square. The storms centered around Whipple, a village of 300 persons, where the worst work was reported. Erb was injured there when caught under a falling wall. Several others were slightly injured.

COLUMBUS, O., June 19—Heavy winds which struck the country just east of here last yesterday left a path of wrecked buildings, flattened orchard and forest trees today.

Xenia was injured according to reports today although many had narrow escapes. Roofs were blown off buildings and many roads are being cleared of trees today. Power lines to Pataaskala, Taylor Station, Black Lick and New Albany were out for several hours, it was said.

The village of Reynoldsburg was missed, but buildings on farms nearby were damaged. The storm struck first east of Norton Field and traveled due east.

Ackland Center, a little old town in New England, is proud of its beauty and traditions. But the modern world is fast crowding in on its peace. Finally, a notorious roadhouse, jazzland, is opened by a gang of bootleggers. Liquor flows. Girls of the town are lured there. Editor Hamilton Pew, of "The Weekly Age," is in the fight of his life against this new menace. He has been warned by a mysterious voice over the phone to stop his editorial attacks on jazzland. Stella Bagot, one of the village girls, has drifted into New York and into the magazine writing game. She has been very successful. Homer Pew, younger brother of the crusading editor, has been persuaded to go to New York to find greater opportunities. He looks up his old school friend, Stella, and they are having lunch together.

Stella at first tries to "high hat" Homer, as the boy from the little place back home, but Homer proves to be very popular with her New York set. They attend a party that night.

Homer is called back to Ackland when his brother is murdered by the jazzland gang. Stella has lunch with Ernie Hallam, a married man who is much in love with her. She decides to go to Ackland to see Homer and get a story for her magazine.

Ernie agrees to drive her up to Ackland from New York the next day.

Ernie tries to persuade Stella to meet him in Boston and she agrees to call him up in the morning.

Stella tells her folks she must see Homer that night about the story she is to write about the murder of the editor.

Farm Notes

FARMERS SAVE MUCH
The highest patronage dividend ever paid farmers of the state representing savings made by them in cooperative purchasing is now being distributed among farm bureau members. Announcement of the dividend was made to service men of the organization from nearly every county in Columbus June 13, the day following the dedication of the new state headquarters.

The total amount distributed as patronage dividends on cooperative purchases of fertilizer during the spring season just closed is $56,541.44, according to officials of the Greene County farm bureau. The per cent of the dividend is higher than ever paid through the organization and was made possible by an increase of nearly 75 per cent.

The farm bureau of this county has $1149.09 which is to be distributed as part of the dividend.

Chicago Chatter

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to Gazette
CHICAGO, June 18.—Social arbiters in Chicago are a thing of the past. Instead of social queens, Chicago has its queens of business, finance, education, politics and the arts. Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, who by right of millions and family might is the social arbiter, has gone into business, the head of a mammoth real estate company. She is also active in the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Mrs. Samuel Insull, wife of the millionaire public utilities magnate, is an actress and producer. She has beauty and charm, and might easily reign, but prefers to queen it before the footlights. Mrs. Jacob Baur is interested in politics, having run for congress, and lectures on finance. Mrs. Arthur Wecker, wife of the Armour and company head, likes politics better than social functions. Mrs. Emmory Blaine, daughter of Cyrus McCormick, and sister of Harold, is devoting her time and millions to education. She has served on the board of education and inaugurated a free text book system.

It is interesting to read back to 1907. At that time it was prophesied a bitter battle would be waged for leadership of Chicago society in 1940. Those slated for the battle were: Muriel and Mathilde McCormick, daughters of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Harold McCormick; Gwendolin Field, granddaughter of Marshall Field, Jr.; Daphne Field, daughter of the Stanley Fields; Frank O. Lowden's daughters, and granddaughters of the late head of the Pullman Company, and Eleanor Patterson, heiress to the Joseph Medill Patterson millions.

FORM DAUGHTERS OF ISABELLA IN XENIA

Organization of the Loreta Circle of the Daughters of Isabella was effected at a meeting of women of St. Bridget Catholic Church, Monday night, in the school auditorium.

Mrs. Anna U. Dalley, Terre Haute, Ind., organizing officer, presided at the meeting, which was featured by a large attendance. Installation of the local circle will take place Sunday, July 1. It is announced.

A called meeting will be held Tuesday night, for all Catholic women of the city, from sixteen years up, at the school at 7:30 o'clock.

SUNDAY SCHOOLS TO MEET NEXT SUNDAY

The next meeting of the Sunday School Unit, consisting of the four churches of Bowersville, Mount Taber, New Hope, Paintersville, Eleazar and Zoar will be held at the Zoar M. E. Church, Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m.

Representatives from each of the Sunday Schools are urged to be present. The Rev. S. R. Burkett, Xenia, president of the Greene County Council of Religious Education, will make the address. Special music, readings, etc., will be on the program.

CHAPTER XII
A nervous giggle escaped her as she brought the car in to the curb. How she would have to watch her tongue! If she were to let slip the slightest phrase expressive of her real philosophy of life they'd all be shocked. Even Homer. He'd been plainly impressed when he was in the city. But now he looked different; sobered and changed.

For a moment she just sat there. She'd promised to call Ernest in the morning. Apparently her time had come. No good in being jumpy about it. Everybody's time came, sooner or later. It was, all said and done, pretty inevitable.

Through all their talks and all her hesitations they'd been moving swiftly along. Really, she'd as good as surrendered when she asked him to drive her up. She felt a little ashamed, now, of those hesitations and uncertainties. Her lips tightened and the dark eyes filled. Then she went into the Age office.

It seemed dim and peaceful, like the town Homer sat at a flat-topped desk, near the door, quietly reading proof. Behind him, at other desks, were the flat-chested Miss Curry, whom she'd known from her girlhood, and a pale young man who breathed with a faint whistling sound. Her nostrils were sensitively responsive to the print, a house smell, and the big press was throbbing in here, like the engine of a ship. Ben March and the devil were in and out. There wasn't much opportunity for talk. She heard herself saying: "I thought I'd run down tonight after all, Homer," and she sat at the vacant desk close to Homer's. Ham's desk, doubtless. Homer was courteous. He said there'd be time enough for talk as soon as the forms were closed. She remarked: "Do you know, I wouldn't mind working on a country paper for a while. It brings you close to life." To which he replied: "Oh, yes, we're close enough." And added: "Look here, Stella, why don't you, while you're here, make the office your headquarters. As if you were on the staff. Answer telephone calls, meet people, just work along with us. I rather think it will give you a closer insight into our problem than any amount of looking around on the outside. The whole situation centers right here, in this room."

Her eyes lighted brightly. Curious how nervously eager and alive she was tonight. "Why, thanks, Homer," she said. "That's just what I'd like to do. I can read proof and all that, you know."

After ten the work slackened. Homer drew his swivel chair over with a grave, "Now we can talk, Stella. Have you read the editorials I sent down?"

"Yes, all of them."

"Then you have a pretty good picture of poor old Ham. Of what you're planning to do."

"Yes, And now tell me what you're planning to do."

"Oh, just carry on. But I don't seem to be making any headway. There's one good man on the case, Wilbraham, of the state police. But I notice he is pretty wary of the district attorney's men and of our little local force. He doesn't say a word. But it looks to me, and I think to him, too, as if some queer forces at work."

"Is there any light on the murder?"

"None." He sat looking ruefully at a pre-revolutionary map of the town that hung on the wall. "The police always rather liked our district attorney, Billy Wyckham. But I'll confess, right now, that I don't understand the way he's acting. Something evasive there."

"I'd better talk with him."

"By all means. You might learn something that would help us, Stella."

"The district attorney's office is a political office, of course," she mused. Her mind was excitedly quick. It was a pleasure to show Homer how keen she could be. New York had done that for her. He'd see. He was friendly and frank. Older, strangely older, but open. And he looked now as boyish as ever, with his curly blond hair brushed back in the same careful way it was so simply with a man who wasn't in the remotest sense an emotional problem. Just a nice boy. Nothing for Ernie to be jealous of here!

"Oh, yes. Subject to terrific pressures of one sort and another."

"And all tied up with the party organization."

"Of course. And these bootlegging gangs are tied up with it, too. I've seen that. Queer underworld ramifications. And conflicting influences. We never get the truth about all that. But you feel it, right here in town. You'll sense it, as you nose around. There's underground propaganda going on. A sort of smoke screen where I stand, even with my own neighbors. He sighed.

"Homer, I'm going to ask you to tell me just what is known about the murder."

"Well, we have the various stories of the jazzland people. Not much else. Horwitz and Nedick are the proprietors."

"Queer names, for Ackland."

"And queer people. But they claim that nobody in the place that night was personally known to them. And none of the guests have come forward to speak since."

"Can't some of them be run down?"

"It's difficult. You see, they all got away in a panic after the shooting. Wilbraham says that's natural enough. It wasn't a large crowd, apparently. And he points out that all the couples there probably were youngsters out on a sly lark or business men with their stenographers, or somebody else's wives, or else just frankly rough characters."

"But it is a little hard to see how they all could have slipped away."

"Well, here's the story. Nedick looks after the kitchens and claims not to have been in the dining room at all. Heard and saw nothing. Horwitz is the business manager of the firm. He says he was in his office at the front of the building. He heard the shot, but supposed it was a truck back-firing on the state road. As he says, you hear a lot of sounds these days and don't think much about them. And it wasn't until the music stopped abruptly that he questioned these. There were no other unusual sounds, he says. No shouting or cursing, no screams. Just a sudden hush. Then a noise of scuffling and people running. And the upsetting of a chair or two. He heard an automobile driving away. Then others. He says he got up then and went out through the front corridor to the dancing floor. That is a big central room with a few tables in the corners. The rest of the tables are on the two side porches. There are steps and parking grounds on each side of the building, so that it was easy enough for all of them to get away."

"According to Horwitz."

Hundreds of statements have been published, many from this city, in which they tell how Konjola restored them to a new state of health. Just a few days ago Mrs. Irvin Huffman, R. F. D. "I will personally recommend and endorse Konjola to anyone who is suffering," said Mrs. Huffman, "because this medicine completely ended every trace of the stomach trouble that I was suffering."

"My stomach was so disordered that every meal I ate caused me intense suffering. Every bite of food that I ate seemed to form a heavy lump in the pit of my stomach that made me very uncomfortable for several hours afterward. Terrible pains seemed to settle in my abdomen and quite often my entire body would be affected. I never knew what brought these attacks on but nothing ever helped to relieve them. I was also subject to belching spells when a hot bile would rise into my throat, leaving an unpleasant taste in my mouth. For days at a time I was in a weak, nervous condition that made it impossible to do my housework. Besides this misery my back ached all the time and whenever I stooped over I was certain to suffer agonies. This condition had been going on so long that I thought my case was hopeless."

"But it turned out that I was certainly mistaken when I thought nothing would help me. Because, just about this time I got hold of some Konjola and began taking it as directed. I had faith in this medicine right from the start because so many reliable persons had recommended it to me. The first thing I noticed was that my digestive organs were gradually getting stronger and that the food did not cause me the intense trouble it formerly did. So I tried eating things that I never dared touch before and you can imagine my surprise when everything digested perfectly. That heavy lump in the pit of my stomach soon vanished and has never returned since I completed the treatment of this medicine. The awful pains do not bother me the least bit any more and I know the relief is permanent. Those spells of belching are ended and every other trace of stomach trouble is gone. My nerves are a great deal stronger and they do not bother me any more. In every way my health has improved and I know that it is all due to the wonderful powers of this splendid Konjola medicine. Therefore I shall always highly endorse it to anyone who is in ill-health."

- Goodman Christmas Savings Club vs. the Home Building and Savings Co.
- George F. Kemp vs. William Wagner.
- J. J. Turner and others vs. Wilbur Scott.
- Oscar H. Gerlaugh vs. Earl Gerlaugh.

Though delegates from Akron, Dayton, and Zanesville made bids for the holding of the convention in their cities, it was decided that the next annual meeting will be held for three days beginning the second Sunday in June, 1929, in Columbus.

With abandonment of this idea, construction of a comfort station in the park was recently begun and the work is progressing rapidly under the direction of John F. Loyd, Xenia contractor, who has charge of the project.

With the structure rapidly nearing completion, Loyd had subcontract the plumbing work to Asa T. Price, Xenia plumber, who is donating his services for the installation of the fixtures. This donation has enabled the contractor, Loyd, to cut the plumbing cost, reducing the total contract price.

Besides having performed the labor free of cost, Price obtained materials at cost from supply houses.

BARBERS SUPPORT LICENSE LAW PLAN

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—The 250 delegates to the Ohio Barbers Association convention which was held here yesterday and Sunday, were returning home today following the election of officers at the closing business session late yesterday.

The officers elected were: C. L. Archer, Alliance, president; William J. Wilmer, Cincinnati; Wylie Nolan, Zanesville; John Jolley, Marion; W. L. Winbourne, Dayton; and F. M. Johnston, Youngstown, vice presidents; and Frank Schieffman, Elvira, secretary.

Support was pledged to the proposed legislative action seeking adoption of a law licensing all barbers.

Though delegates from Akron, Dayton, and Zanesville made bids for the holding of the convention in their cities, it was decided that the next annual meeting will be held for three days beginning the second Sunday in June, 1929, in Columbus.

FARM FOR SALE

Land is the basis of all wealth. This farm is located just west of Jamestown, Ohio, and right up against the corporation line. Bounded on the north by the B. & O. Railroad for 150 rods. On the south by a good road 160 rods. Where you have the Dayton Power and Light system right at your door every-where along the road. This block of near 100 acres includes the heart of the black belt just west of the town. No buildings on it. A few fruit trees and but two virgin forest trees standing. One a burr oak, the other an elm, which you know is a guarantee of the fertility of the soil. And within a stone's throw of a suburb of the town called Cottonville. This type of western soil has within the last century produced a type of brainy men who are today the leaders of the whole world, along every great line of human endeavor. Let me name a few of them, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison, Luther Burbank, Henry Ford, Charles Lindbergh, we can throw in the Elmer Gantry and false prophets. This ideal block of land with every acre of it as clean as a hound's tooth, and all in grass with practically new fences all around it, and right up against the town, that is headquarters of one of the most swell bus lines in all the country, where you can get out and back again to Springfield, Xenia, Washington C. H. and where not. Every two hours, six and seven times a day if you want to.

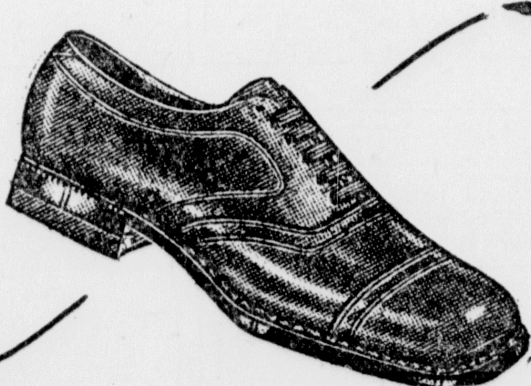

If you doubt any part of this ad come over and we shall be glad by your vision to eliminate your mistakes. Being disposed of on account of an antiquated family having been wiped off the map, leaving 235 heirs scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to S. America. To be sold at auction to the highest bidder at the Court House in Xenia, O., Saturday, June 23, 1923 at 10:00 A. M.

BARBERS SUPPORT LICENSE LAW PLAN

COLUMBUS, O., June 19.—The 250 delegates to the Ohio Masters Barber Association convention which was held here yesterday and Sunday, were returning home today following the election of officers at the closing business session late yesterday.

The officers elected were: C. L. Archer, Alliance, president; William J. Wilmer, Cincinnati; Wylie Nolan, Zanesville; John Jolley, Marion; W. L. Winbourne, Dayton; and F. M. Johnston, Youngstown, vice presidents; and Frank Schlemmer, Elvira, secretary-treasurer.

Support was pledged to the proposed legislative action seeking adoption of a law licensing all barbers.

Though delegates from Akron, Dayton, and Zanesville made bids for the holding of the convention in their cities, it was decided that the next annual meeting will be held for three days beginning the second Sunday in June, 1929, in Columbus.

FARM FOR SALE

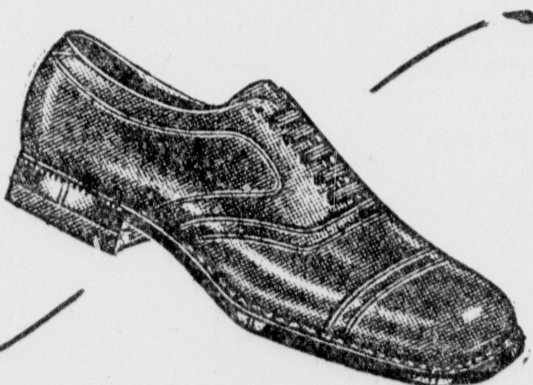

Land is the basis of all wealth. This farm is located just west of Jamestown, Ohio, and right up against the corporation line. Bounded on the north by the B. & O. Railroad for 150 rods. On the south by a good road 160 rods. Where you have the Dayton Power and Light system right at your door everywhere along the road. This block of near 100 acres includes the heart of the black belt just west of the town. No buildings on it. A few fruit trees and but two virgin forest trees standing. One a burr oak, the other an elm, which you know is a guarantee of the fertility of the soil. And within a stone's throw of a suburb of the town called Cottonville. This type of western soil has within the last century produced a type of brainy men who are today the leaders of the whole world, along every great line of human endeavor. Let me name a few of them, Abraham Lincoln, Thomas Edison, Luther Burbank, Henry Ford, Charles Lindbergh, we can throw in the Elmer Gantry and false prophets. This ideal block of land with every acre of it as clean as a bound's tooth, and all in grass with practically new fences all around it, and right up against the town, that is headquarters of one of the most swell bus lines in all the country, where you can get out and back again to Springfield, Xenia, Washington C. H. and where not. Every two hours, six and seven times a day if you want to.

If you doubt any part of this ad come over and we shall be glad by your vision to eliminate your mistakes. Being disposed of on account of an antiquated family having been wiped off the map, leaving 225 heirs scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to S. America. To be sold at auction to the highest bidder at the Court House in Xenia, O., Saturday, June 23, 1928 at 10:00 A. M.

J. H. SANDERS, Admr's.
